GUARDSMEN AND MINERS SIDE BY SIDE

Two Hundred Men of 18th Given Passes to Attend Church.

FATHER O'REILLY SCORES MITCHELL

Priest Advises Parishioners to Return to Their Work in the Mines.

WHOLE REGION PEACEFUL

By ROBERT WRAY,
Staff Correspondent.

Shenandoah, Pa., Oct. 12.—Shenandoah was one of the most peaceful of the cities of this commonwealth today, although blue-coated guardsmen of the national guard patrolled its streets with ball cartridges in their rifles. Shortly after daybreak the rain stopped and the October sun shone brightly. People gathered here and there on the streets and watched without comment the soldiers as they patroled the town.

The heavy rain of the previous day and night made the camp a sea of mud. Details were made and before night fell the camp was ditched and drained.

The day has been uneventful in the city and the camp. Early this morning Col. Rutledge granted passes to about 200 members of his regiment who wished to attend church in Shenandoah. In all the churches the blue of the guardsmen could be seen, but more particularly in the Roman Catholic Church of the Annunciation, of which Father H. P. O'Reilly is pastor. Today he told the miners of his congregation to return to work, and scored President Mitchell.

Are Not Dynamiters.

"While many of you are Mitchellites, you are not dynamiters," he declared.

He welcomed the soldiers, he said, but deplored that they were compelled to sleep on a cold mountain.

Maj.-Gen. Miller inspected the several camps of the brigade today. The heavy rain of yesterday and last night cut up many of the company streets and regimental color lines. Conditions would have been more perfect had the rain kept off until the camps were fully established. Gen. Miller was very much pleased with the camps and so expressed himself. He came unannounced into the camp of the Eighteenth infantry late this evening, and was handsomely received. After a complete inspection of the camp Gen. Miller and the members of his staff went to Mahanoy City to inspect the camp of the Fourteenth infantry. Tonight he went to Wilkesbarre to inspect the Third brigade, where he intends to establish his headquarters.

Col. Rutledge today issued an order detailing Capt. Harry F. Davis, retired, as acting regimental quartermaster. He tonight relieved Lieut. Lane of Company M, who has been acting quartermaster since the regiment arrived here.

Private Meets With Accident.

Private James McNeilife of Company G, who lives at 140 Carson street, East End, has met with an accident, and may lose the sight of one eye. A tent peg which he was holding while it was being driven slipped from his hands and struck him under the eye.

John Sabowsz was arrested tonight at 11:30 by the sentries on Bower street for refusing to halt when called on. After being examined, through an interpreter, he was released, his want of knowledge of English being responsible for his advancing.

The provost guard has 16 men guarding a car of coal on the Pennsylvania railroad, against which threats were made, it is alleged. There are also extra guards on West Coal street, where Durham was killed.

Mrs. William Lindemuth of Turkey run applied to President Edward Kearns today for protection for seven men and her son, who had been working in the St. Nicholas mine. If assured protection, they will come out from the boiler house tomorrow and join the union. President Kearns gave assurance of protection.

GEN. GOBIN REVIEWS MEN AT WILKESBARRE

Memorial Services in Honor of Col. Hoffman Held by Chaplain Eberly.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS TO THE GAZETTE.]

WILKESBARRE, PA., Oct. 12.—A great crowd visited the camp of the soldiers in West Side park across the Susquehanna from this city today. Late in the afternoon the Ninth regiment, the Second troop, Philadelphia city cavalry and party of Battery C of Phoenixville gave a dress parade on the camp grounds and were reviewed by Gen. Gobin and staff. More than 10,000 persons saw the spectacle. Among them were thousands of strikers and their families. Tomorrow morning detachments of all the regiments in the Lackawanna and Wyoming valleys will be sent out on patrol duty. They will escort all workmen to the collieries.

The death in a Scranton hospital last night of Col. Theodore F. Hoffman of the Eighth regiment, which is camped at Duryea, 12 miles north of here, cast a gloom over that command. Memorial services were held in camp this afternoon by Chaplain Daniel Eberly. The body will be escorted from Scranton to his home in Pottsville by eight sergeants of the Eighth. He will be given a military funeral and Gen. Gobin will ask Gen. Schall, in command of the First brigade to detail two companies from each of the Second and Third regiments to attend the funeral. Gen. Gobin and part of his staff, Lieut. Col. J. B. Hutchinson of Harrisburg, who succeeds Col. Hoffman, and the staff and line officers of the Eighth, will also attend the services.

FOURTEENTH MEN ARE ORDERED OUT

Reading Trying to Start Colliery at Mahanoy City This Morning.

CAMP IS INSPECTED

By WILLIAM L. ROSS,
Staff Correspondent.

MAHANOY CITY, Oct. 13.—The entire Fourteenth regiment is ordered out at 4 o'clock this morning to guard the North Mahanoy colliery of the Reading company, which will be started this morning. The Reading claims to have plenty of men to start operations. There is every prospect of trouble arising, in which men of the Fourteenth will play a prominent part.

The Reading is anxious to start at least one colliery before the meeting of the manufacturers' association on Tuesday.

Mahanoy City, Pa., Oct. 12.—In absolute silence, with neither hiss nor cheer, nor other expression of good or bad will, 5,000 residents of Mahanoy City and its vicinity today watched a dress parade of the Fourteenth regiment in Main and Center streets.

The whole command, excepting those necessary to guard the camp, turned out. The showing was excellent, every man and every bit of equipment looking spick and span. The silence was noteworthy, but there was apparently nothing ominous.

Maj.-Gen. Miller and staff, commanding the division, spent 15 minutes at the Fourteenth camp today. Col. Thompson met the party at the Reading station and rode beside the carriages to the camp where the guard turned out. The division officers were then conducted to headquarters and from there through the camp.

Best Camp in Brigade.

Gen. Miller inspected everything there. The present outlook is entirely peaceful, he said. Col. Thompson's report of good order prevailing is the same as that made by the various other regimental, battery and troop commanders.

A high compliment was paid to the Fourteenth camp by one of the division officers. He said frankly: "It is the best in the division; the best arranged and the best conducted."

The afternoon was bright and warm after a night and forenoon of drenching rain. So hard was sentry duty that three men fell prostrate on their rounds, overcome by dampness, cold and fatigue. All are now in good condition.

Although Sunday, it was one of the busiest days in camp so far. The telephone poles were raised by soldiers, more tent floors, benches, etc., constructed and considerable policing done.

Two Men Lose Bed.

A narrow escape from danger to the entire camp was made late last night. A cot in the tent occupied by Private Siefers and Corporal Buston of Company I, caught fire from an overturned candle. The cot was thrown out before the tent caught. Only a half burned bed resulted. Chaplain John A. Burnett occupied this evening the pulpit of the Primitive Methodist church here. He preached to the largest audience the church ever held.

The officer of the day was Capt. William S. McKee, Company F, and First Lieut. Harry Ledenroth, Company H.

TENTH IS DETAILED TO GUARD COLLIERIES

Miners Polled by Operators and Union Leaders on Question of Working.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

SHAMOKIN, PA., Oct. 12.—Col. Barnett distributed a large number of details of Tenth regiment troops in and about town and at the mines tonight to guard against non-unionists being held up by strikers.

Everything was quiet at camp during last night, except the stoning of two sentries by unknown persons hidden near the lake. The soldiers shot in the direction from whence the missiles came.

Strikers worked hard today making a canvass of miners' homes, to persuade them to remain out. Colliery superintendents also canvassed miners today to try and induce them to go back to work.

Strikers say they are receiving enough from the outside public to prevent them from starving, and as long as they are given bread, operators need not expect the men to resume work at the present rate of wages. All of the 25 collieries in this region are idle. Not one pound of coal is being cut. Strikers' pickets hover about the collieries day and night and it requires a regular scout to creep into the collieries and return without being observed.

SUICIDE IN BELFRY.

Elderly Man Found Hanging by Rope—Treasury Department Clerk Also Kills Himself.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 12.—Edward T. Kraut, aged 65 years, was found dead tonight in the belfry of Trinity Methodist church. He was hanging by a rope around his neck that had been fastened to the round of a ladder.

George Huston Cooper, aged 61, committed suicide at his home today by hanging himself to a closet door. He was a clerk in the fifth auditor's office of the treasury department.

SENATOR QUAY SEES PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT AND BEARS A MESSAGE TO PRESIDENT CASSATT

WITH THE FOURTEENTH REGIMENT AT MAHANOY CITY.

ROOT'S CALL UPON MORGAN APPARENTLY IS A FAILURE

Secretary Also Appears at the Temporary White House and Tells Results to the Executive Very Briefly.

THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE BUREAU,
903 Fifteenth St., N. W.,
WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 12.

Senator Quay came over on the train from Philadelphia this forenoon, on summons from Roosevelt, was in conference with the president for half an hour and then returned on the next train to Philadelphia.

Senator Quay's appearance in Washington today was a surprise. He appeared at the White House at 11 o'clock, was shown at once to the president's room on the second floor and remained there an hour. He left the president at 12 o'clock and took a train for Philadelphia, leaving at 12:15. His only remark in answer to all inquiries at the station was:

"I came here to see the president and I am now on my way to Philadelphia. You must excuse me if I say no more."

President Roosevelt now looks to the operators to eliminate for the time being their own personal side of the great controversy and the strike and dig coal. With this object in view, Secretary of War Root conferred with Mr. Morgan yesterday and made his report to the president tonight, and with this object in view also, he summoned to the White House today Senator Quay, who is supposed to be very close to President Cassatt of the Pennsylvania railroad.

Carries a Message to Cassatt.

Mr. Cassatt hitherto has been in the background in all coal conferences, so far as the administration is concerned. He is now an important factor, and Senator Quay's conference with the president today resulted in his taking some sort of message to the Pennsylvania railroad president.

Great secrecy still surrounds the present move of the administration; but it can be stated on the highest authority that the president and his cabinet now have strong hopes that the forces at work and directed by members of the administration will lead to important developments within a few days.

It is known that Senator Quay is determined to bring an end to the struggle, if possible, and that he is working hand in hand with the president, Attorney General Knox, Secretary Root, Gov. Odell of New York and others for success.

Secretary Root continued to envelop his movements in mystery today. Still refusing to see all callers, he remained at his apartments at the Arlington hotel and did not visit the White House until 7 o'clock this evening. He then remained with the president only a few minutes and returned to the hotel to attend the dinner given by the crown prince of Siam; but during these few minutes he told in a few words the results of his conference on the Corsair with J. P. Morgan. What these results were no one who has any knowledge of the subject will say.

Hopes from the New Factor.

The belief prevails in Washington that the report from Mr. Morgan was not altogether hopeful; but Mr. Morgan is not the only great force in the pending controversy on which the efforts of the administration are now being exerted. The president is in communication with President Cassatt of the Pennsylvania railroad, and there is strong hope among administration officials that some help toward a settlement of the difficulty may be found through this source.

That the president is still considering the appointment of a commission to investigate the facts of the controversy was in evidence tonight when Prof. J. W. Jenks of Cornell university and Marcus M. Marks of New York called. Both had been summoned to the White House for a conference. Others besides these mentioned in connection with the membership on the commission are Labor Commissioner Wright, Dr. Nicholas Butler of Columbia college and Chairman Knapp of the Interstate commerce commission.

Three thousand people packed Chase's theater tonight, where a benefit for the miners' union was held. President Gompers of the American Federation of Labor presided and made a bitter speech against the coal operators.

It is understood that the operators are glad to have their side of the case laid before the president and especially the work they are doing to supply coal. It is said they have divided the country into districts and will attempt to equalize the supply so that no one community will suffer; also that the railroads will make special arrangements to handle soft coal, so as to supply all who can make use of it in place of anthracite.

QUAY IN PHILADELPHIA BUT STILL RETICENT

A Graceful Way Out of the Difficulty to Be Suggested to the Operators.

THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE BUREAU,
Public Ledger Building,
PHILADELPHIA, PA., Oct. 12.

Senator Quay returned to this city about 5 o'clock this evening from Washington. He would not discuss his visit to the president or any phase of the coal strike tonight. There is strong reason to believe that Senator Quay is feeling quite hopeful tonight that there will be an adjustment of the difficulties very soon.

Senator Quay is said to have had some visitors tonight who were strangers in the city. They were with him only a few minutes. Most of the evening Judge Pennypacker was with him, leaving just before 11 o'clock, when he left for the western part of the state on the fourth week of his campaign tour.

A way out for the operators that many politicians and business men profess to believe may be adopted at the conference on Tuesday, is as follows:

President Baer and his fellow operators have been declaring all along that they would not yield under political pressure. At the conference in New York it is understood the pressure was even stronger than the public has been led to believe. It was announced after that meeting that no further conference between the parties participating was planned. It was intimated that on Tuesday at the conference between the operators and a committee representing the National Manufacturers' association, some definite announcement might be made by the operators. If there were to be any concessions it is urged the operators would prefer to yield to the representatives of the industries of the country.

CHESTER D. POTTER.

MORGAN KEEPS OUT OF PUBLIC VISION

Even Abstains from Going to Church—John Markle Still Talks Very Ugly.

THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE BUREAU,
Herald Building, Herald Square,
NEW YORK, Oct. 12.

More than a score of men called at the Fifth Avenue hotel today to see J. P. Morgan. Quite as many inquired for him at the Union club, and several sent messages out to his yacht, the Corsair, which lay at anchor. So far as could be learned, none saw him. Few were so fortunate as to learn just where he was.

He has permanent apartments at the Fifth Avenue hotel, and when he finds it is necessary he stays there, coming and going so quietly, as a rule, that few employes learn of his presence. It was said at the desk that he was not at the hotel either Saturday night or today. It was asserted at the Union club that he did not call there during the day.

Mr. Morgan did not attend at St. George's church, as is his custom.

John Markle, leader of the independent anthracite operators, emphatically said tonight that, in spite of all the efforts put forth in behalf of peace, and notwithstanding the hurried trip to this city of Secretary Root, the strike situation remains unchanged.

"More coal is being mined each day," he said, "and the best thing the public can do, if it would be relieved of the burden of high-priced coal, is to stand aside and let the operators and the miners adjust their own misunderstandings."

"Will not the visit which Mr. Root made to Mr. Morgan, and the subsequent conference Mr. Morgan had with coal men, bring about a change in the situation?" was asked.

"I tell you there has been absolutely no change in the situation, except that

ROBBERS' DRUG MAY COST LIFE

Knockout Drops Used on Two Men—One Is in Critical Condition.

VALUABLES TAKEN

Thieves are again resorting to the use of knockout drops in Pittsburgh. They employed this old method on Saturday night upon two men, and one of their victims will probably die. John Henry of 351 Twenty-eighth street and David Jones of 58 Reed street were drugged in a saloon at 422 Liberty avenue and robbed of watches valued at $70 and $75 in cash.

Jones is in a critical condition from the effects of the knockout drops. The detectives and police made an attempt to investigate the matter last night, but were unable to find any trace of the thieves. From the description given by Henry the thieves are the worst class of criminals, known as "Yegg men," and the front office men are inclined to believe that they are members of the notorious gang that is harbored in Allegheny.

Both Henry and Jones are tin workers. On Saturday evening they went to the saloon. Three rough looking men entered and overheard Henry and Jones speaking to each other in Welsh.

They approached them and asked them to have something to drink. The invitation was accepted and after a time Henry noticed the men were acting in a suspicious manner. He felt weary and went into the street, thinking that his friend would follow him. He suddenly became sleepy. Jones did not follow him and he went into the saloon after him.

When he returned, the three men had Jones in a corner and were talking in an excited manner to him. The thieves accompanied the men into the street. Jones and Henry were in such a sleepy condition at that time they are unable to remember just what happened to them. About an hour later they regained their senses and Henry's gold watch, valued at $40, and $15 in cash were missing, and Jones found that he had lost his watch, valued at $30 and $60 in cash.

Jones' condition became so serious that his friend hurried him home in a carriage and summoned a physician. Then he also was taken ill and was unable to make a report of the robbery to the police until yesterday. Capt. Gallant was detailed to make an investigation last night, but at a late hour was unable to learn anything of the thieves.

NAVY WELL COALED.

Thanks to Admiral Bradford's Foresight, Vast Stores of the Fuel Have Been Provided.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 12.—(Special.)—There is no danger that the Caribbean maneuvers of the North and South Atlantic and European squadrons will be abandoned on account of the shortage of coal in the United States.

Real Admiral Bradford months ago foresaw the stringency which the anthracite strike would produce in the bituminous market. He contracted for immense supplies at St. Lucia, Trinidad and Kingston, and stored hundreds of tons at San Juan and Key West, so that whatever the shortage is in the United States there will be steaming coal to supply the combined fleet, which will be commanded by Admiral Dewey, for any kind of a campaign.

HANNA ORDERED TO BED BY ANXIOUS DOCTORS

They Say the Strenuous Senator Must Have Absolute Rest for One Week.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

CLEVELAND, O., Oct. 12.—Hoping against hope that he may regain sufficient strength to enable him to enter the campaign toward its close, Republican leaders in Ohio are almost compelled to admit that Senator Hanna is out of active politics, at least. He must take a complete rest and keep himself as free as possible from the nervous strain of a warm political campaign, such as the one now begun in Ohio promises to be.

The condition of the senator when he arrived in Cleveland this morning after a week's campaign in Southern Ohio was even worse than his friends had supposed. Not only is he suffering from acute indigestion and a severe cold, but he seems much broken by the hard work thrust upon him.

His physicians at once ordered him to bed, and he will remain there for a week or longer. He hopes to be up at the end of the week, but the doctors say he needs absolute rest and must keep away from all work until they see fit to release him.

No other arrangements will be made by the Republican state committee to make dates for the senator, and the dates already made will be filled in as far as possible by other speakers, such as Congressman Burton, Gov. Nash, Secretary Laylin and Hardy Daugherty.

LAURA BIGGAR SAYS SHE IS NOT HIDING

Also Denies Charges Made Against Her and Her Alleged Co-Conspirators in Will Case.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

NEW YORK, Oct. 13.—The World this morning says: Laura Biggar-Bennett, who, with others, is charged with conspiracy to get the property of the late Millionaire Bennett, made yesterday to a World reporter the only direct statement she has given to any newspaper. There is a warrant out for her arrest, issued in New Jersey, and it has been asserted that she is hiding in fear of arrest. Laura Biggar-Bennett says:

"I am not hiding and I have no fear of arrest. I have done nothing that the world is not free to know. I am looking for nothing that I am not justly entitled to. I am charged with conspiracy, but the conspiracy is all on the other side.

"It is claimed that I was not the wife of Mr. Bennett, and that Sameul Stanton, a justice of the peace, swore falsely that he had married us. It is also claimed that Dr. Hendrick testified to a lie when he said that I gave birth to a child after Mr. Bennett's death while I was in the sanitarium. They claim that these two gentlemen and myself made up the story of the marriage and the baby in order to render void Mr. Bennett's will.

"Let me tell you where the real conspiracy lies. A certain lawyer interested against me took Mr. Stanton out a few days ago, told him that he thought a great deal of him, got him partially under the influence of liquor and then offered him $10,000 to make a false confession that he had lied when he said he married Mr. Bennett and myself."

PRAISE BY CLEVELAND.

The Ex-President Comments Upon Former Secretary of State Olney's Saturday Speech.

NEW YORK, Oct. 12.—(Special.)—Ex-President Cleveland, when asked if he would make any comment on Mr. Olney's speech, said:

"When Mr. Olney speaks on public or political topics he never fails to be impressive. He does not speak at random, but gives to those he addresses the benefit of careful thoughtfulness and the deductions of a thoroughly trained and orderly mind.

"I fully believe with him that the old-time ascendency of the Democratic party is essential to the welfare of the American people.

"In speaking of what President Roosevelt has attempted to do in healing the coal strike situation, I am glad to see he used the following language: 'The president's overture to the coal operators was prompted by the best motives and should have been treated with respectful consideration.'"

FAST LINE RUNS INTO BAD WRECK

Engineer and Brakeman Killed and Passenger Coaches Are Burned.

DELAYS ALL TRAINS

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

Harrisburg, Pa., Oct. 12.—An engineer and brakeman were killed and Fireman W. C. Black of Harrisburg seriously scalded and bruised and both arms broken in a collision of fast line east, running 50 miles an hour, with a freight wreck on the Pennsylvania railroad at Barre early this morning.

The dead:

ENGINEER JOHN W. SMITH, aged 42, of Harrisburg.

BRAKEMAN H. A. TREXLER, aged 30, of Shade Gap, Huntingdon county.

Two mail clerks and 10 passengers were slightly injured by flying glass and the shock of the collision.

E. S. Berdin of Germantown was the most seriously hurt. He was thrown out of the window of the car in which he was riding and was badly cut about the body.

The injured were able to resume their journey after receiving medical treatment at Huntingdon.

The passenger locomotive was demolished, six passenger coaches were burned and several freight cars wrecked. The Pullman did not leave the track.

The freight train was loaded with coal and steel and was bound east. It is supposed to have parted at Barre and then run together, wrecking several cars and throwing them on the east-bound passenger track. Before an alarm could be given the first section of the fast line came along and ran into the wreckage.

Engineer Smith was caught in the debris and lived but a short time after being taken out. Fireman Black was pinned under cars of twisted steel and was badly scalded by escaping steam and water. Brakeman Trexler of the freight crew was killed in the collision.

The baggage and mail cars took fire and the flames quickly communicated to the passenger coaches. The mail and baggage was removed before any damage was done to them by fire.

Passenger Conductor Charles Steiner of Harrisburg, who had charge of removing the injured men from the wreckage, was slightly burned.

All trains were badly delayed.

$20,000 FEE PAID FOR SURGICAL OPERATION

It Is Performed Upon J. Ogden Armour's Daughter by a Famous Viennese.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

CHICAGO, Oct. 12.—Dr. Adolf Lorenz, the famous Vienna surgeon, performed an operation on Lolita Armour, a 5-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Ogden Armour, today and announced his belief that a cure is certain. He said the child, who has been unable to walk since her birth owing to congenital dislocation of the hip joint, would run about and play as other children within six months and that she can stand upon her feet before the end of two weeks.

In the presence of five physicians, three of whom assisted at the time, the delicate surgery was performed this morning in the Armour house. The time consumed was two hours. Ether was administered, although there was little pain under the deft manipulations of the Viennese.

The right leg of the little invalid, from the hip to the knee joint, is now in a plaster cast. The cast will hold the thigh bone within its socket until it grows accustomed to the position.

For actual labor done, Prof. Lorenz will be paid at the rate of $10,000 an hour; but while the operation lasted but two hours, the surgeon came thousands of miles to perform it. The fee is one of the largest in the annals of surgical practice.

"CEASE SENDING LETTERS; WE WANT WAR," SAYS SULTAN.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS CABLE TO THE GAZETTE.]

Manila, Oct. 12.—The sultan of Bacolod, Mindanao, has rejected the friendly overtures of Gen. Sumner, commander of the American forces on Mindanao, in a defiant letter in which he invites war. The sultan says:

"The sultan of Bacolod desires war forthwith. He wishes to maintain the religion of Mohammed. Cease sending letters. What we want is war. We do not desire your friendship."

Friendly Moros report that the sultan of Bacolod is fortifying his strongholds. He is in possession of many rifles. It is expected that an American column will be sent from Camp Vicars to capture and reduce the Bacolod stronghold. It has not been decided when the move is to be made.

TEST OF STRENGTH COMES THIS WEEK IN COAL STRIKE

Operators Promise to Resume Work in Many Collieries and Union Leaders Say They Can't Get Men.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS TO THE GAZETTE.]

Wilkesbarre, Pa., Oct. 12.—This is the beginning of a week which it is generally believed will put to a test the claim of the operators that they will be enabled to start up their collieries if given protection, and the counter claim of the United Mine Workers' organization, as expressed in Wednesday's resolutions, that the strikers will not return to work without concessions, even though the entire military force of the United States was here to protect them.

With a determination to prove their claim the operators have been for the past week making a supreme effort to secure men, and announced that a number of new collieries will start tomorrow. Claim is also made on the operators' side that the forces at collieries already working are to be largely increased during the week.

Strike disorder is now almost wholly wanting. During the past two days the soldiers have had nothing to do further than their regular patrol duty.

The Erie company tonight posted notices at its collieries at Pittston requesting all the striking employes to return to work tomorrow. The company assured all men who returned ample protection.

PANIC IS CAUSED BY HAIL ON ROOF

People Climb Over Seats in Effort to Escape from St. Louis Theater.

SEVERAL WOMEN FAINT

One Man Is Killed by Tornado in Illinois — Much Damage in Quincy—Snow Falls in Northwest.

St. Louis, Oct. 12.—Late this evening a hailstorm, lasting five minutes, caused many thousand dollars' damage in the city. Hailstones two inches in diameter fell and the streets looked like there had been a fall of snow. Green houses all over the city were practically ruined.

The precipitation of hail on the tin roof of the Olympic theater caused a panic in the audience. The lights were low during the performance and in the semi-darkness the crash instantly spread terror throughout the theater.

The audience was on its feet at once. Men scrambled over seats and a number of women fainted. When the lights were turned up the ushers succeeded in calming the terror-stricken spectators.

When quiet was restored the hail had ceased and the performance resumed. Several persons were bruised, but none was seriously hurt.

QUINCY, ILL., Oct. 12.—A tornado struck this city early this evening, sweeping in a northeasterly direction and destroying much property in the city and in the county. A large number of houses and barns were destroyed and great damage was done to orchards and standing corn.

One man at Camp Point was killed and Henry Koetters, in the outskirts of Quincy, was fatally injured. The smoke stacks of the electric light power house were blown down and the city is in darkness.

FERGUS FALLS, MINN., Oct. 12.—Snow began falling early tonight and still continues, the ground being covered.

REV. J. A. BALLANTYNE DIES VERY SUDDENLY

Presiding Elder of McKeesport M. E. District Passed Away Sunday Afternoon.

The Rev. Dr. James A. Ballantyne, presiding elder of the McKeesport district of the Methodist Episcopal conference, died very suddenly yesterday afternoon at 4:30, at his home, 433 Ross street, Wilkinsburg. He had been ill for the last two weeks, having been attacked with the grip, with some symptoms of typhoid fever, but was not thought to be serious.

Yesterday, just before his death, he had been talking to the Rev. Charles W. Smith, of the Pittsburgh Christian Advocate, about the work of the Methodist Episcopal conference now in session. He suddenly became violently ill, stopped talking, and in five minutes was dead.

Dr. Ballantyne was born in Armstrong county in 1858, and prepared for the ministry at Allegheny college, graduating there in the class of 1880. He has been a member of the Methodist Episcopal conference of Pittsburgh ever since.

For the past six years he has been the presiding elder of the McKeesport district, and his time would have expired this week, his successor being announced in conference this morning. Prior to that he was pastor of the Bingham street, South Side, Methodist Episcopal church, and before that was pastor of the Methodist Episcopal church at Creighton, O., and Ames church at Hazelwood.

Dr. Ballantyne is survived by his widow, who was Hattie Ford, daughter of the late Emory L. Ford, of the Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company, and two sons and a daughter. Arrangements for the funeral have not yet been made.

STRIFE IN THE LEAGUE.

Committee of Ballot Reform People Appointed to Investigate Charges Against Their Party.

Salespeoples' assembly of the Knights of Labor last night presented in the United Labor League resolutions, calling on the league to drop its meddling in politics. The resolutions were promptly tabled and the league spent an hour or so in a warm discussion of published reports that to secure its action at the last regular meeting, ousting President William Boate and declaring against all candidates but one of the Citizens party, $2,500 had been paid to members of the league, in the interest of the Ballot Reform party. A committee was appointed to investigate the charge of bribery.

The committee consists of Vice President Joseph Henry, Frank E. Smith, W. J. Burke, J. J. Toole and O. E. Ainsworth, of whom nearly all voted against Former President William Boate, who declares that he had nothing to do with the publication of the report.

The league admitted 16 new delegates, seven from the painters' locals, three from the machinists, three from the plumbers and one each from the salespeople, steam engineers and ornamental housesmiths. John Schultz, business agent of the slate and tile roofers, was indorsed for the position of superintendent of lock No. 1 on the Allegheny river.

COUCH WAS WARM BUT PROVED A DEATH BED

Unfortunate Who Slept on a Cinder Heap, Caught Under Tons of Molten Slag.

A homeless wanderer on Saturday met a horrible fate in Homestead while seeking rest and warmth upon the cinder heap of the Howard Axle works. While the man was sleeping upon his bed of cinders tons of slag and molten metal were poured upon his body. Yesterday afternoon the charred remains were found among the steaming clinkers.

There is no means of recognizing the mass of human flesh, but the edges of his tattered clothing and the worn shoes found upon the corpse, indicate that the victim had been a tramp, who, hungry and penniless, sought the smoldering cinders as a warm couch. While enjoying this miserable shelter he had fallen asleep and was unable to escape the seething metal.

The man had gone to the ash pile early in the evening. At 10 o'clock a relay of cars containing the hot refuse of the furnaces was run out upon the tramway and dumped upon the heap, cremating the sleeping man where he lay. The heavy rain during the night cooled the slag and when the body was found yesterday afternoon by a workman the cinders had hardened about the corpse, making it difficult to extricate it from the solid mass. Deputy Coroner John Black was detailed to make an investigation of the case.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

HARRISBURG, PA., Oct. 12.—Formal announcement of the death of Col. Theodore F. Hoffman, of the Eight regiment, at Scranton last night was made by Adjt. Gen. Stewart in general orders issued from national guard headquarters today. The orders state that Col. Hoffman was a faithful and respected officer of the guard for 26 years. "He was a brave and faithful soldier, trusted by his superior officer and respected by the men whom he commanded. In his death the guard loses a most valuable officer, one whose devotion to the service and whose conscientious performance of duty endeared him not only to the officers and men of his immediate command, but to the entire guard."

The funeral will take place at Pottsville Tuesday afternoon. As a mark of respect to his memory the officers of the guard will wear the usual badge of mourning for 30 days. On the day of the funeral flags on the armories throughout the commonwealth and at the state arsenal will be displayed at half-mast. Gen. Gobin has been directed to provide for the proper funeral escort.

Lieut. Col. Joseph B. Hutchison of this city, will probably be chosen Col. Hoffman's successor. Hutchison is one of the most capable officers in the guard. He has been in the service for 20 years.

SAGE'S ACTIVE CAREER PERHAPS NOW ENDED

His Physician Will Not Permit the Sick Financier to Leave His House.

THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE BUREAU,
Herald Building, Herald Square,
NEW YORK, Oct. 12.

By those intimately acquainted with the personal affairs of Russell Sage it was admitted today that the condition of the aged financier for some time has been more critical than has been understood, even by himself, and that he must now retire from active business life.

Dr. J. Carl Schmuck, his family physician, announced this evening that Mr. Sage is in such condition that he would not return to his business tomorrow, and that it might be some time before his condition would be such that he could prudently leave his home at Cedarhurst. It was easily seen by the physician's carefully guarded utterances that he considers Mr. Sage's condition as to end his active career.

"Mr. Sage is doing nicely under the circumstances," said Dr. Schmuck, "and is regaining his strength gradually, we think, and his health appears to be generally improving; but he will not go to town tomorrow. It would not be prudent. He is still confined to his room, but is able to be up and move about."

From reliable sources it was learned that for some weeks Mrs. Sage and close friends of the family have been urging Mr. Sage to retire, but that until very recently he has clung to his determination to remain in the harness as long as his strength would permit him to move about.

Constable Had Trouble.

Constable George Webb of Allegheny had an exciting experience on Rural avenue, in the Eleventh ward, last night, while quelling a riot in a house there. Tony Commino, an Italian cut a man whose name is not known, and another unknown man was knocked on the head and rendered unconscious. Constable Webb has but one arm and while he was arresting Commino, a crowd tried to take away the prisoner. Webb fired his revolver three times into the crowd, but hit no one. The constable made information later against Commino before Alderman J. G. Harper, charging him with disorderly conduct, and last night lodged him in the county jail for a hearing.

Tonight at the New Exposition Miss Henriette Kell will sing solo parts for the great Pittsburgh Festival chorus with its 600 fine voices.

HERRICK CAN NOT ACCEPT AND WHITE MAY GET PLACE

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

Cleveland, O., Oct. 12.—Friends of Col. Myron T. Herrick today revealed a story that has been a secret for several months. When President McKinley offered to give Mr. Herrick the ambassadorship to Rome the Cleveland banker was compelled to decline the post. His business interests would not permit him to go abroad. He told Mr. McKinley that he might be able at some future time to go to Italy or some other European capital.

HENRY WHITE.

Friends of the colonel said today that Mr. Herrick was proffered the appointment by President Roosevelt nearly a year ago, it being understood that Ambassador Meyer would retire at any time.

Col. Herrick asked President Roosevelt to wait for an answer. Three months ago Mr. Herrick informed the president that he could not go to Europe, even for a short period. This probably explains the announcement that Mr. Meyer is to retire and that Henry White, secretary of legation at London, is to succeed him.

Baer, president of the Reading.

PEARY MUST SUBMIT TO OPERATION TODAY

It Is to Be Performed Upon His Feet, Which Were Badly Frozen Up North.

THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE BUREAU,
Public Ledger Building,
PHILADELPHIA, PA., Oct. 12.

The Public Ledger this morning says:

"Commodore Robert E. Peary, the Arctic explorer, will come to this city today to undergo treatment for his feet, which were injured in the far north. It may be necessary to have an operation performed.

"Although the extent of Commodore Peary's injuries are not known, it is said they were due to having his feet frozen four years ago soon after he started on his last expedition. It was then necessary to amputate several toes. The operation was performed by the surgeon who accompanied the Peary party. Since then, especially in the coldest season, Commodore Peary has suffered from frost bite.

"With Commodore Peary will be his wife, who conducted the relief expedition upon which he returned from the Arctic regions three weeks ago; his daughter, Marie, and Mrs. Peary's mother. It is expected the explorer will be in the hospital for several weeks."

CHESTER D. POTTER.

THE BEST NEIGHBOR.

The Rev. John A. Jayne Defines Him As the Man With Sympathetic Spirit.

At the Observatory hill Christian church yesterday morning the pastor, the Rev. John A. Jayne, preached upon the theme, "The Best Neighbor in Greater Pittsburgh," his text being Luke x:29: "Who is my neighbor?" Rev. Jayne said in part:

"In the olden time the term neighbor was akin to the word farmer, which in those days meant a man living upon a little patch of ground. But under the Christlier way of looking at words and their meaning, we are learning that any man is our neighbor who needs our help.

"The gospel allows no such term as stranger, foreigner or rival, but makes each man a neighbor. Your neighbor is everywhere. He jostles you daily in business. The man wounded on the road to Jerico is found everywhere. Open your eyes and you may see him by the wayside in the slums of our great cities.

"The man with the true neighbor spirit in his heart thinks not of the wounded man's class, color, creed or condition. The man with the neighbor spirit will look after the material and physical as well as the spiritual condition of the man needing help. The best neighbor is the man with the sympathetic spirit.

NAVY BUILDING IS AWAY BEHIND

Some Vessels Under Construction as Much as 40 Months Behind Contract.

TARDY STEEL DELIVERY

That and the Long-Drawn-Out Pacific Coast Strikes the Causes of Delays—Lessons Taught by Tiny Warships in a Toy Sea.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS TO THE GAZETTE.]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 12.—"Progress upon new vessels under construction during the past year has not been satisfactory," says Rear Admiral Bowles, chief of the naval bureau of construction in his annual report to the secretary of the navy.

All the larger vessels, he says, have been delayed by non-delivery of structural steel, while the vessels building at San Francisco were set back by the 19 months' strike. The inability of shipbuilders to obtain a sufficient force of skilled workers has also been, in many cases, an important factor in the slow progress of the vessels.

The battleship Ohio is shown to have been 29 months behind her contract July 1. This is not an isolated case. The battleship Missouri is over 20 months behind; the majority of the battleships and cruisers are over 10 months behind, and some of the torpedo craft are more than 40 months behind the date of completion stipulated in their contracts.

An interesting portion of the report is that in regard to the work of the experimental model basin, in which miniature warships are tried. A number of experiments have been made in the basin during the past year to determine the most desirable forms of the new battleships and armored cruisers.

It is wholly to the basin facilities that the bureau has been enabled to arrive at the very satisfactory results that the new armored cruisers of the Tennessee class, displacing 14,500 tons, may be expected to make a speed of 22 knots with actually somewhat less power than the preceding lot of armored cruisers of the Pennsylvania class of the same speed, which displaced 13,680 tons. Similarly, the two new 16,000-ton battleships of the Connecticut class will drive appreciably easier at 18 knots than the preceding battleships of 14,948 tons.

VILSACK RESIDENCE LOOTED OF JEWELRY

Thieves Made Hasty Visit and Carried Away $1,500 Worth of Gems.

The residence of Leopold Vilsack at Center and Liberty avenues was entered by thieves last Saturday night and jewelry valued at $1,500 was stolen. The family was at dinner at the time.

The thieves climbed over the side porch to the second floor, where they gained entrance through a window. A chiffonier drawer was forced open and a jewel case taken. It was broken open and the contents carried away. The contents were four valuable diamond rings, a diamond brooch, a pearl and a coral necklace and several other articles of less value.

A servant entering the room about 6:30 discovered the theft. It is evident that the approach of the servant frightened off the burglars, as Miss Catherine Vilsack had left the room only 20 minutes before.

CATHOLICS HONOR MEMORY OF MATHEW

Crowds Hear Addresses by Prominent Divines on Work of Great Temperance Laborer.

The anniversary of the birth of that great apostle of temperance, Father Theobold Mathew, was commemorated last night by a big mass meeting at the Bijou theater, given by the Catholic Total Abstinence union of the diocese of Pittsburgh. The theater was filled to the doors. Father John G. Beane, president of the union, acted as chairman, and introduced the Rev. Father M. A. Lambing of Scottdale and the Rev. Father Regis Canevin of St. Paul's cathedral, who addressed the meeting.

Father Canevin gave a history of Father Mathew's life and work from the time of his birth in Tipperary, in 1796, up to his death, in 1851, after completing a two-years' tour of the United States. He said that while serving the church in Cork he was made sick by the sight of his countrymen degenerating, through the curse of intemperance. It was not until William Martin, a Quaker, who saw what a hold he had on his people, urged him to take up the cause of temperance, that he finally decided to enlist in the movement.

He said that after the great famine in Ireland in 1849 Father Mathew, struck by the kindness of the American people, who had sent several shiploads to the relief of Ireland's famine-stricken people, decided to visit this country. He visited Washington at the invitation of the president, and was accorded a seat of honor on the floor of the senate, the first to be so recognized since Lafayette.

He said that Father Mathew's words when first taking up the cause, "Here goes in the name of God," had been taken as a motto by the synods of this diocese.

Father Lambing spoke of the society and its work. He said that it was not made up of reformed drunkards, as there were very few of that class; but was composed of those who signed the pledge on the grounds of prevention, rather than cure.

Several musical numbers were rendered during the evening by the following soloists: Miss Gertrude McLaughlin, Miss Bessie Cunningham, Mr. Harry Rief and Mr. Lawrence Rickets, Miss Agusta Able acting as accompanist.

PRINCE FITTING FOR HIGH OFFICE

Object of Siamese Royal Visit Is to Get Pointers on Government.

INSPIRED BY AMERICANS

He Met Them in Europe and They Convinced Him of Educational Value of a Voyage to the United States—Sightseeing.

THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE BUREAU,
601 Fifteenth St., N. W.,
WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 12.

His visit to the United States is the finishing touch of an education of the crown prince of Siam designed to fit him for a life of administrative activity when he returns to his native land six weeks hence. It can be authoritatively stated that he will soon assume an important position in the Siamese government and will be closely associated with his father, the king, in ruling the Siamese people.

His residence in England while a student at Oxford, and his travels on the continent have brought the crown prince into contact with many prominent Americans, among them William Potter of Philadelphia and Gen. James A. Wilson, at whose homes he will visit. They instilled in him a great admiration for this country and a determination not to return to Siam without making a study of American methods, which he might apply as far as possible to conditions in his own land. It was with this end in view that the trip to the United States was planned.

That Washington will at some not far distant day become one of the most beautiful cities in the world, is the opinion of the crown prince, who has been busy sightseeing ever since he arrived here.

It rained hard all day yesterday and he was obliged to remain indoors, except when he went to the White House and was cordially received by President Roosevelt.

Early this morning the crown prince attended by members of his suite, was driven in a carriage through the residence section of the city, past many parks and circles, most of which are marked by statues of army and navy heroes and statesmen. The crown prince was quick to admire the handsome homes of Washingtonians, but remarked that he observed that in proximity to many of the most beautiful and stately mansions there stood poor frame houses. These, he was informed, were the dwelling places of negroes who, despite the spread of the fashionable residence section and the increase in value of their land, still clung tenaciously to it, awaiting a yet further advance. This was a source of wonder to the crown prince.

The crown prince also visited Arlington cemetery and the Soldiers' home.

There was a dinner tonight at the apartments of the Siamese minister in the Arlington. Among the guests were the crown prince, Prince Chakrabogse, Maj. Rajahvallobh, aid-de-camp to the crown prince, Secretaries Hay, Root and Wilson of the cabinet; Judge Holls of New York, Prof. Gore of Columbian university of this city, Gen. Haldeman and Beriah Wilkins.

What do you suppose the Chinese clean their teeth with? Pulverized teakwood. It is agreeable, slightly aromatic and takes off the tartar wonderfully well. It comes in a teakwood box with a label like the kind affixed to packages of firecrackers, and sells in this country for 15c a box. The first consignment from the orient will be found at Campbell's.

NEW ORLEANS STRIKE ENDS IN COMPROMISE

Men Go Back to Work on the Terms Fixed by Gov. Heard.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS TO THE GAZETTE.]

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 12.—The strike of the Street Railways company's employes, which has effectually blocked traffic on all city lines for two weeks, was settled tonight by the union almost unanimously accepting the governor's ultimatum on a secret ballot.

The basis of settlement is that the men will go back to work in the morning at 20 cents and ten hours, with a minimum of seven and a half hours a day, no discrimination to be made against any of the men under charges, and as many to be taken back as are needed for the operation of the company's lines.

THOUSANDS AT PARKS.

Ideal Autumn Sunday Drew Crowds Chrysanthemum Show Opens October 26.

Yesterday's ideal weather drew thousands to Schenley and Highland parks. The crowds took advantage of the good day to get out, and as the traction park season has closed, Schenley and Highland were the two breathing spots to which the people flocked. The fair sex was in the majority, and in the crowds yesterday all the latest fall fashions in gowns and hats were to be seen.

In the absence of Organist Lemare, who will not be home for two weeks yet, Edward J. Napier presided at the organ recital, and the big music hall was filled to the doors. The crowds flocked through the conservatory all day, and saw the first of the chrysanthemum show. The real show does not start until later, but many of the plants were in full bloom yesterday and added a pretty color to the conservatores.

Superintendent Falconer announced yesterday that the display of chrysanthemums would be open to the public a week from next Sunday. A collection of 14,000 plants, representing over 365 varieties, will be shown. The show is to be the biggest ever seen in Pittsburgh and will last for about a month.

SWISS GENERAL STRIKE VERY QUICKLY ENDED

Labor Syndicate Calls Upon All Trades to Resume Work. Belgian Unrest.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS CABLE TO THE GAZETTE.]

GENEVA, Oct. 12.—The Swiss strike has collapsed, the strikers' syndicate having called upon all trades to resume work. The striking employes of the street car line resumed work this evening. Today there is complete tranquility in Geneva.

CHARLEROI, BELGIUM, Oct. 12.—The national committee of miners of four of the great Belgium coal fields today adopted resolutions demanding an increase of 15 per cent in the wages of coal miners, the object of the demand being to create a diversion in favor of the striking coal miners in France and to prevent the supplying of Belgian coal to France.

TRAIN ROBBERS ESCAPE.

Only Clue Three Tired-Out Horses Stolen Near Scene and Found in the Vicinity of Lincoln.

LINCOLN, NEB., Oct. 12.—The man hunt in Southeastern Nebraska lagged today, and the four highwaymen who held up the Burlington train near Lincoln early yesterday morning seemingly have distanced their pursuers. A heavy rain has made the following of the trail, even with bloodhounds, out of the question.

Some of the Lincoln policemen are of the opinion that the robbers are hiding in this city or not far from here. What strengthens this belief is the fact that last night three horses were stolen at the town of Raymond, not far from the scene of the hold-up, ridden hard in a roundabout way to this place and abandoned.

It is said the robbers secured $33,000 from the express safe.

Four Poisoned by Cakes.

OMAHA, NEB., Oct. 12.—Arthur Moran and three children, aged 7, 9 and 11 years, were poisoned today by eating cakes in which arsenic had been placed by the mother, who mistook it for baking powder. The two younger children are in a critical condition, and it is thought they will die.

AN INTERNATIONAL COMBINE IN FRUIT

English and American Concerns to Stop Treading Upon Each Other's Toes.

[SPECIAL CABLE TO THE GAZETTE.]

LONDON, Oct. 11.—Another Anglo-American trade combination is in process of arrangement here. Two directors of the United Fruit Company of America are now in London conferring with Elder & Tyffes, the largest firm of banana importers in this country.

The United Company has a fleet of 70 ships and a capital of $20,000,000. The British firm has 30 ships and a capital of $10,000,000, and is the largest fruit-growing concern trading with Jamaica and the Canaries.

The object of the proposed combine is not to create a corner in bananas, but to adjust uniform freight rates by which competition between the two companies may be removed.

URIBE-URIBE BEATEN.

Said to Have Been Driven Into the Interior of Colombia After Some Hard Fighting.

COLON, COLOMBIA, Oct. 12.—Persons who arrived from Cartagena yesterday say that forces of the government have defeated the revolutionists at La Cienaga.

It is reported also that the government has driven the revolutionary general, Uribe-Uribe, from the strategic position he held near Teneriffe, on the Magdalena river. Gen. Uribe-Uribe is said to have been compelled to retreat with all his forces toward the interior of the country.

The Magdalena river is now reported to be again open for traffic.

BETS OFF UNTIL SITUATION CLEARS

NEW YORK, Oct. 13.—(Special.)—The Sun this morning says: Fred H. Brooks, who said a few days ago that he had several thousand dollars to wager on Odell at 2 to 1, announced last night that his principals had instructed him not to place the money until the coal situation cleared.

AN INSANE MOTHER DROWNS HER BABY

Throws It in Park Lake Then Follows, but Woman Is Rescued and May Recover.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

SPRINGFIELD, O., Oct. 12.—Crazed by despondency due to continued ill health, Mrs. Robert Keller this morning threw her 4-months-old baby in a lake at Snyder park, then jumped in. The baby was drowned and the mother was rescued, but she is still in a critical condition and may die before morning.

The husband went to his mother's house some two or three squares distant and was absent about one hour. When he returned his wife and baby were absent. Mr. Keller immediately started on a search. He had proceeded but a short distance when he was met by friends, who broke the news to him.

It is believed the woman threw the baby out of the second story window of the waiting room at the park, and then jumped in the lake from the same place. No one saw her leap, but passers-by saw her struggling in the water and hurried to her assistance.

THE CAWLEY SURVIVORS.

Adelaide and Agnes Cawley, whose skulls were fractured by their maniac brother on Friday, are at the point of death at the South Side hospital. Yesterday afternoon they again became unconscious, and the physicians expressed little hope of their recovery.

It was thought they were dying several times during the night, but each time they seemed to rally from a fatal decline. Their brother is still confined in the county jail and maintains that a burglar massacred his mother and family. Little Joseph, the wounded baby, still clings to life, but his recovery is not hoped for.

German Squadron to Venezuela.

LONDON, Oct. 13.—A dispatch from Hamburg says that on account of the murder in Venezuela of Aram Russell, a German subject and manager of the Venezuela Plantation Company, the German government has ordered the cruisers Vineta, Panther and Gazelle to go to Venezuela.

THERE'S ANOTHER RUSH TO THE MONEY LAND--"THE TUNNEL LAND!"

FETTERMAN

The crowds at Fetterman yesterday demonstrated beyond any possible doubt that investors are alive to where's the best place to put their money. If you want the bargain prices now's your time to get in. Take MT. WASHINGTON HILL TOP CARS anywhere on Smithfield Street until the new Tunnel Lines are finished. These cars run direct to the property.

BIRDSEYE VIEW SHOWING HOW HIGH SPEED ELECTRIC CARS WILL MAKE THE FAST 10-MINUTE RUN FROM SMITHFIELD STREET AND FIFTH AVENUE TO FETTERMAN.

☞Remember when considering this opportunity that the lots in second plan won't wait any longer for the late ones than the lots in the first plan did.

So jump the car at once! What if you do find passengers hanging to the straps? Isn't making $200, or $300 at almost a flash by putting up $5 or $10 worth the squeeze?

The reason that the great high-speed tunnel lines will make such marvelous time is attributable to the fact that they will not be interrupted by other traffic through the great subterranean highway. What time they lose in the downtown district they will be able to make up in the tunnel. This is not a beautiful theory worked out to see how well it will look in print, but is a truth which you can have substantiated by consulting any practical civil engineer. Faster time than 10 minutes from Fifth Avenue could be made. It is being made today in Germany. In that country, from Berlin to Zossen, 150 miles an hour have been made. It would be dangerous to attempt to get any such terrific speed on cars operated within this city, but it shows the possibilities of the equipment which will be put into operation on these wonderful electric-transporting powers.

In reaching Fetterman in 10 minutes the tunnel lines will not be making more than 20 miles an hour, which is not one-seventh of the speed that is now made in the great German capital.

By referring to the birdseye view, showing the close proximity of Fetterman to Fifth Avenue, you will notice how directly the tunnel lines run and the mountain-grade, zig-zag route the present line takes. You can see that it will be easier for the tunnel lines to reach Fetterman in 10 minutes than it is for the present Mt. Lebanon Hilltop line to reach it in 26 minutes.

We make our statements regarding the tunnel lines expressly explicit for the reason that all sorts of assertions have been published by corporations, firms and individuals owning property in the Mt. Lebanon district, some claiming that one or the other of the two great tunnel systems runs exclusively through their property. Anyone who has gone over the territory or is acquainted in this section knows such statements are untrue. Neither of the tunnel lines runs exclusively through any one person's or company's property. The proprietorship of the frontage along these traction lines is divided up among very many owners, and the only reason why Fetterman is the property which will grow most in value is the fact of its being located where the lines come closer together, one being on the property and the other but 400 feet away.

Ask The Salesman For That "Man."

As indicated by illustration the tunnel lines which will take you to Fetterman are but a square apart. You can see from almost any portion of the property the Little Washington Tunnel Line passing Banksville Avenue and you will observe that the Charleroi Tunnel Line extends directly through our plan on West Liberty Avenue. This is the only part of the entire Mt. Lebanon or West Liberty district where the two tunnel lines converge in such wonderful proximity, and, as one man expressed it, "a 5-year-old child could see which property to select after looking over this district and watching the gigantic improvements now in progress."

On deciding to attend this great sale of

do not forget how fast the bargains went when the first plan was opened. We received fifty-six letters for $100, $150 and $200 lots after the entire plan was sold off. We can say authoritatively that more than one hundred lots in the first plan, ranging at and close to these figures, were sold in less than an hour.

As the second plan is the choicer property and there will be the same range of prices as on the first plan—you can readily understand that there will not be very many, if any, lots left for the men or women who hesitate.

TERMS:

REMEMBER THAT YOU CAN PURCHASE THIS PROPERTY UPON TERMS THAT ARE AS EASY AS THE PRICES.

5 per cent down,
Balance 2½ per cent per month.
No Taxes. No Interest.
10 per cent discount when paid within 60 days.

The title of the property is insured by the Fidelity Title and Trust Company.

Don't forget in thinking over these prices that Fetterman has paved and improved streets. Electric lights are located all over the property. Schools and churches are only a short walk away.

GOLDEN EVENT OF SCOTTISH RITERS

Three Grand Commanders of North America Will Attend.

WILL TALK NEW TEMPLE

Visitors to Pittsburgh Bodies' Fiftieth Anniversary Celebration Will Include Much of the Roll of Prominent Masons.

A great concourse of prominent Free Masons of the North American continent will attend the fiftieth anniversary celebration of the Scottish Rite bodies of the valley of Pittsburgh beginning Tuesday, November 11, and continuing through that week. The three grand commanders of the supreme councils of the sovereign grand inspectors' general of the thirty-third and last degree, Free Masons, on the North American continent, outside of Mexico, are expected to be here. These are former Judge Henry L. Palmer, grand commander for the Northern Masonic jurisdiction for the United States of America, who is president of the Northwestern Life Insurance Company; the Hon. James D. Richardson of Murfreesboro, Tenn., grand commander for the Southern Masonic jurisdiction, who as congressman from his district is hailed as the Democratic floor leader of the house, and James N. Stearns of Montreal, grand commander of the Masonic jurisdiction in Canada. Another of the distinguished visitors will be Edgar A. Tennis of Philadelphia, grand master of the grand lodge of Free and Accepted Masons in Pennsylvania.

HENRY L. PALMER OF MILWAUKEE,
Grand Commander of the Supreme Council for the Northern Jurisdiction of Scottish Rite.

Will Discuss New Temple Project.

The four bodies of the Ancient Accepted Scottish Rite sitting in the Valley of Pittsburgh number some 2,000 members. Included are all the bodies of the Scottish Rite west of the Allegheny mountains, with the exception of a lodge of perfection at Erie. Most of this membership will attend the celebration, and besides there will be hundreds of Scottish Rite and other Masons from all sections of the continent.

In connection with the event the revived project of a magnificent Masonic temple for Pittsburgh will be considered. As this plan has been informally discussed among leading Masons recently, it contemplates the sale of the valuable property in Fifth avenue, now occupied by the Free Masons' hall, and the erection, probably in the Oakland district, of a temple, which with the site will mean an expenditure of about $1,000,000.

The program for the celebration is now being completed, but is at yet in such indefinite form that details cannot be announced. All the ceremonies will take place within the walls of the Free Masons' hall. The general committee of arrangements has not yet completed its sub-committees. This general committee consists of Herman Junker, George W. Wilson and Eli Edmundson, Jr.

Usual Annual Reunions.

The fiftieth anniversary celebration will be observed in connection with the usual annual reunion of the bodies, when all the degrees are conferred with full ceremonial. In this celebration there will, of course, be nothing but the degree of the Scottish Rite conferred. Arrangements will be made to have a lodge of the craft, otherwise a Blue lodge, confer the first three degrees of Free Masonry the evening previous to the beginning of the celebration. This feature of the program is to allow visitors to witness the methods of work in lodges in this section of the country.

Among others of the distinguished visitors who are to attend the Pittsburgh ceremonies are the secretaries of the three supreme councils of North America, the Hon. James H. Codding of Towanda, Pa.; Fred Webber of Washington, D. C., and Hugh Murray of Hamilton, Canada, appraiser of customs there.

The celebration will also bring together the five members of the supreme council of Pennsylvania, Gen. Robert E. Pattison of Philadelphia, James Isaac Buchanan of Pittsburgh, James H. Codding of Towanda, George W. Guthrie of Pittsburgh, and Frank M. Highley of Philadelphia. James I. Buchanan of Pittsburgh is the deputy of the supreme council of Pennsylvania, acting for it at all times when the council is not in session.

The Four Scottish Rite Bodies.

The four bodies of the Scottish Rite in the valley of Pittsburgh and their presiding officers are as follows: Gourgas Lodge of Perfection, taking in Masons from the fourth to the fourteenth degrees, inclusive, William H. Hamilton, thrice-potent grand master; Pennsylvania council, Princes of Jerusalem, including Masons of the 15th and 16th degrees, Eli Edmundson, Jr., most equitable sovereign prince grand master; Pittsburgh chapter of Rose Croix, E. R. D. M. (meaning Heredom, the significance and derivation of which is the subject of diversified opinion among the students of the Scottish Rite), which body takes in Masons of the 17th and 18th degrees, Guy P. McCandless, most wise and perfect master; Pittsburgh consistory, taking in Masons of from the 19th to 33d degrees, inclusive, Harry W. Dunlap, commander-in-chief. For the four Scottish Rite bodies of the valley of Pittsburgh, John E. Haines is secretary and A. V. Holmes, treasurer.

The treasurer of the four bodies holds $75,000 or securities for that amount, and besides this the bodies have a large place in the ownership of the valuable property on which is located the Free Masons' hall.

JAMES D. RICHARDSON
of Tennessee, Grand Commander of the Supreme Council for the Southern Jurisdiction of Scottish Rite.

JAMES ISAAC BUCHANAN,
Scottish Rite Deputy of the Supreme Council for Pennsylvania.

SLIGO MILLS AT CONNELLSVILLE

Old South Side Plant Will Be Moved to the Coke Region.

GROUND ALREADY SOLD

Panhandle and Pittsburgh & Lake Erie Railroads Bought Old Site. New Company Will Enlarge Old Mills When Rebuilt.

The old Sligo mills on the South Side are to be picked up and carried to Connellsville, and there rebuilt on an enlarged scale. The mills were erected in 1825 and for a long time have been operated under the name of Phillips, Nimick & Co., although being solely owned by James M. Bailey, who recently asked the common pleas court to give him an extension of the limitations of two years under a charter he holds to pierce Mt. Washington with a tunnel.

Months ago the mill property on the south side of Carson street was sold to the Pennsylvania company, to be used for Panhandle railroad improvements. Just recently the Sligo mill warehouse property on the opposite side of the street was purchased by the Pittsburgh & Lake Erie railroad. It is said that before this purchase the Wabash people had located a line through the property and the Pittsburgh & Lake Erie is now in court to prevent the Wabash using it.

Were Worth $1,000,000.

James M. Bailey held out for years against negotiations for new ownership of the Carson street property. It is said that the Pittsburgh & Lake Erie railroad paid nearly $250,000 for the ground. The entire mill property is estimated to be worth about $1,000,000.

The old Sligo mills have a capacity of about 24,000 tons a year of bars, angles, sheets and specialties. The plant has 38 puddling furnaces, 12 heating furnaces, two hammers, two trains of rolls and other equipment. It is usually active the year round. A new company is being formed for the operation of the mills when moved to Connellsville.

According to the terms of sale with the Pennsylvania company the mills proper must be off the site by January 1, and prompt action is therefore necessary.

Connellsville Elated.

The Pittsburgh & Lake Erie plans to use the property on the other side for extensions to its terminals. The property is touched at the rear by the tracks of the road.

A number of business men of Connellsville are interested in the new Sligo company, which will operate the mills at Connellsville. Among them are J. M. Reed, Charles Davidson, H. M. Kephart and E. T. Nortin. The community is elated over securing the enterprise. A group of 100 coke ovens is to be erected in connection with the mills. The site was recently purchased for $50,000.

The promoters of the enterprise claim a victory over Pittsburgh. It is pointed out that it will cost little more to bring ore from the northwest to Connellsville than to Pittsburgh, while the coke freight from Connellsville will be eliminated.

Roosevelt Takes a Long Drive.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 12.—Availing himself of the delightful weather today, the president took a long drive throughout the city and suburbs. He was accompanied by Mrs. Roosevelt. The wound on the president's leg is reported to be healing well and his general condition is said to be satisfactory.

Ex-Pittsburgher's Neck Broken.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Oct. 12.—(Special.)—Anthony P. Serrick, formerly of Pittsburgh, and employed in a beach front hotel, fell down stairs at his home in Diston avenue, tonight, and broke his neck. When picked up he was dead.

Three Boys Probably Drowned.

TRAVERSE CITY, MICH., Oct. 12.—Three boys, Jack Corbett, aged 15; Elliott Ashman, aged 15, and Milan Morgan, aged 14, are supposed to have been drowned in Traverse bay. They went for a sail yesterday afternoon. They did not return and today their boat was found on the shore.

FOUR MEN BURNED IN FURNACE EXPLOSION

Fall in Carrie Burns No. 2, at Braddock, May Cost Three Lives.

Three men were seriously burned and a fourth slightly injured by the falling of a "hang" in a furance and the explosion that followed at Braddock early yesterday morning. They are: L. H. Holleran, aged 30, of Swissvale, the foreman; Joseph Webber, aged 26, of Rankin; John Toal, aged 29, of Rankin, are badly burned about the head and body and taken to the Mercy hospital, and John Fmetiz, aged 30, of Keating, slightly burned about the body, taken to his home.

The men had been working for several hours at the Carrie Burns furnace, No. 2, and at 4 o'clock it gave way under the pressure of too much iron ore. The fall caused a terrific explosion. The men were blown from the top, with their clothes in flames. They were picked up at different points, the nearest being found 20 feet from the furnace. All were unconscious when found, and the three worst injured may die.

HAPPENINGS OF THE DAY.

—Yesterday afternoon Lee Gable, aged 9, was run over by a street car at Twenty-ninth street. Dr. Hieber amputated two of the boy's fingers.

—Two cases of smallpox were reported to the bureau of health yesterday. They are Herbert Watson, aged 19, of 69 Crawford street, and E. C. Caldwell, aged 20, of 513 Crawford street.

—One of the laborers employed in the new building of W. W. Lawrence & Co., in West Carson street, last night upset a can of gasoline, which ignited from a torch. A fence near by caught fire. There was also a leak in a gas main at that point and it was some little time before the blaze was extinguished. The damage was small.

RISE IN RIVERS LETS OUT COAL

Not Less Than 2,500,000 Bushels Will Get Away Today.

LIGHT BARGE STAGE SURE

Should 10 Feet Be Reached 6,000,000 Bushels Will Clear—Busy Scenes of Prepartion on Wharf Last Night.

As a result of the steady downpour of rain last Saturday, there will be a stage of at least eight and one-half feet in the rivers at Pittsburgh by this morning, and it is expected that not less than 2,500,000 bushels of coal will be released from the landings and started to the southern markets. Some of the old rivermen look for 10 feet of water, and if their expectations should be realized all the coal tied up in the local pools, some 6,000,000 bushels will float away to relieve the fuel famine which has threatened certain sections of the Ohio and Mississippi valleys.

All last night the Pittsburgh harbor rang with the din of preparation. Supplies were taken on board the towboats and preparations were made for the long voyage. Twenty towboats, with more than 240 barges, will begin to leave at dawn and it is expected that by noon today the entire fleet will be under way.

The rain of Saturday which drenched Pittsburghers was general through the middle states and was particularly heavy at the headwaters of the Monongahela river. Reports at hand last night indicated that a stage of eight and one-half feet was certain to come this morning, and if the prophets are borne out in their sanguine predictions, the water will reach 10 feet.

There was a big crowd on the wharf yesterday afternoon. Men, who were seeking employment on the tows, were quickly engaged, and there were many happy faces among boat hands who had been idle for many weeks. One old rivermen who stood at the Market street guage watching the rising water, burst out:

"Its coming sure. Here is six good feet now, and before morning there won't be an inch short of nine feet. That means a decent light barge stage, and all the barges will get out on time. If we get 10 feet on the flood you'll see the coal boats floating off in a jiffy.

"Its not coming too soon. Coal is 15 cents in Cincinnati and it is hard to get at that price. Louisville and Memphis are beginning to shiver and they'll stand out and sing hallelujahs when they see our towboats coming."

CORNER STONE OF A NEW CHURCH LAID

Impressive Ceremony for Congregation of St. Anne's Syro-Maronite Catholic Church.

The corner stone of the new St. Anne Syro-Maronite Catholic church, at Fulton and Gilmore streets, was laid yesterday afternoon with impressive ceremonies. The event was witnessed by a large crowd, including several hundred Assyrians, who will compose the congregation of the new church.

The services were in charge of the Rt. Rev. Joseph Yazbek, superior to the Syro-Maronite missions in the United States. He was assisted by the Rev. Father Regis Canevin of St. Paul's cathedral, representing the Rt. Rev. Bishop Richard Phelan; the Rev. Father John Price of St. James' church, West End; the Rev. Father William Carroll of St. Andrews' church, Allegheny, and several other clergymen. Addresses were made by the Rev. Father Canevin and the Rt. Rev. Father Yezbek, the latter speaking in the English and Assyrian languages.

Father Canevin said during his address that to the Assyrians, more than to any other nationality, does Christianity owe its stability. He traced the history of the race from the days of the apostles and showed that the Assyrians were always steadfast in their belief in the Christian faith. Father Yazbek congratulated his fellow countrymen on their enterprise in working for a permanent place of worship and thanked the English Catholics present for their interest and support.

The blessing of the corner stone and the site of the main altar was conducted by Father Yazbek, assisted by the other priests.

The new church will be the first of its kind in Western Pennsylvania. It will be of brick and stone, and will accommodate about 400 people. The building and ground cost about $20,000. The Rev. Father Gabriel Korkemes is pastor of the congregation.

TRAVERSE CITY, MICH., Oct. 12.—Two Italians were killed and a third is dying as the result of a drunken row at the camp of the T. C. L. & M. railway near Suttons bay early today.

Charles Amatid and two brothers named Ferdinand became involved in a row, and Joe Ferdinand was shot four times and killed by Amatid. In the melee the other Ferdinand was also wounded.

After killing Joe Ferdinand Amatid turned on the surviving brother. The latter whipped out a knife and used it with awful effect. Amatid was stabbed 50 times and fairly cut to pieces.

W. & J. OPENS CENTENNIAL CELEBRATION

Members of Alumni Occupy Pulpits of Various Churches of Washington.

ADDRESS ON MISSIONS

The Rev. J. Ross Stevenson Gives Entertaining History of Work of Former Students in Foreign Field and at Home.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

Washington, Pa., Oct. 12.—The centennial celebration of Washington and Jefferson college was successfully inaugurated here this morning. Not for a long time has there been so many distinguished persons in the historic old town as at present. Yesterday every train brought hundreds of alumni and friends of the three institutions and many more arrived today.

The work of preparation was completed last night and all the visitors were given a hearty welcome. Washington presents a gay appearance. Late last week decorations in all parts of the town were made, and although the heavy rain of yesterday spoiled them to a certain extent, still they present a very creditable appearance. The college buildings especially present a magnificent appearance, and no expenses was spared to beautify, especially their interior. The red and black of the college, of course, predominates, while flowers and trimming of all kinds make the decorations the prettiest ever seen in Washington. Electric lights have been placed in all parts of the large college campus, while big beacon lights on the main college building can be seen for a long distance. A massive "W. & J." with an "1802" on one side and a "1902" on the other in electric lights add color to the general effect.

The chief event of the day was the address this afternoon of the Rev. Dr. J. Ross Stevenson, pastor of the Fifth Avenue Presbyterian church of New York.

REV. DR. J. ROSS STEVENSON.

On Foreign Missions.

Dr. Stevenson spoke at the gymnasium on "Our College and Foreign Missions." He said in part:

As we review the history of Washington and Jefferson college, we may well inquire. What has been the service of this institution to the cause of Christ, especially to that cause which lay nearest His heart and called forth the last command of his lips, to wit, the cause of foreign missions? One would naturally expect to find this college taking a leading part in the world's evangelization, when he remembers that the two original colleges were the direct results of a great religious awakening commonly known as the revival of 1800, a revival which gave a powerful impulse to missions, and which also created an immediate demand for ministers. This accounts for the fact that in the early history of Jefferson college the large proportion of graduates entered the Christian ministry.

Along with this we recall the fact that the century in which our college has lived has been the greatest missionary century in the history of the church. One would naturally expect a Christian college as old as this one to furnish a goodly number of pioneer missionaries. When Jefferson college came into existence, missionary work had to be inaugurated among the Indian tribes in this country, but among great nations abroad; and there was need for men to blaze the way, explore the land and lay sure foundations.

Some Pioneer Missionaries.

The first Presbyterian minister to graduate from Washington college, Michael Law, class of 1808, was a missionary to the Indians of Toledo, Ohio. Thomas Smith Williamson of the Jefferson class of 1820, was the great pioneer missionary to the Dakotas. Alexander L. Blackford (W. '36) one of the first Presbyterian missionaries to Brazil. John C. Lowrie (J. C. 1826) was the founder of Presbyterian missions in India, and James S. Starr (J. C. 1826) reported the service for the United Presbyterian church in India. Robert W. Orr (J. C. 1833), and Andrew P. Harper (J. C. 1835) were among the first to enter China when the treaty ports were opened in 1842. The important mission to the Chinese of this country had for its founder Dr. William Speer (J. '39). Wilson, McDonald and McFarland, all of Jefferson college, have been foundation builders in Siam. This is but a partial report of the pioneer work done on mission fields by our own alumni.

From what has already been said, it is evident that this college has sent laborers into practically all the great mission fields of the world. India, the Gibraltar of paganism, has been attacked by a large proportion of our missionary alumni, almost one-third of the whole number. The Chinese empire has been invaded by about one-fifth of the alumni sent out from this college to the foreign field. No less than fifteen of our graduates have gone out to Africa. The only missions of the Presbyterian church in which representatives of our college have not been found are Syria and Korea. Dr. Ewing (W. & J. '76) was appointed a special commissioner to superintend the beginning of the work of the Presbyterian church in the Philippine Islands.

Those Who Serve Church.

Let us also remember, with gratitude to God, that our college has served the church in every line of foreign missionary effort. It is a noteworthy fact that a large number of our graduates have been the agents of foreign missionary boards or societies. For example, Robert Baird, for a while agent of the New Jersey Missionary society, and Richard Brown and William C. Anderson, agents for the Western Missionary society. For 41 years Dr. John C. Lowrie was the secretary of our board held the same honored and influential position. The present secretary of the United Presbyterian board is a graduate of Jefferson college. The first foreign missionary sermon preached before the general assembly was in 1850 by Joseph Stevenson of the Jefferson class of 1808.

When we turn our attention to those who have gone out from us into the "regions beyond," we find among them great evangelists. Without making any invidious comparisons, we would simply mention here among the contributions of our own alumni, the work of Dr. Hunter Corbett, concerning whom I have heard it said that he is one of the three greatest missionaries in China; of George Paul and A. G. Good in Africa; of Samuel Morton and the Newtons in India; of Dr. Wallace and Mr. Boyce in Mexico, of George Fulton in Japan; of Charles Sterrit among the Kurds in the mountains of Western Persia, and of Dr. Ira M. Condit among the Chinese in California.

Some Educational Work.

The educational work of our alumni on the foreign field is note-worthy. One of the most influential colleges on the foreign field is the College of Tengchow, in the province of Shantung, China. Dr. Arthur J. Brown, in a report of his visit to the Chinese missions, testifies that this college is one of the two most influential for the Christian development of China. The success of this institution has been mainly due to the wise and self-sacrificing efforts of Dr. Calvin W. Mateer of the Jefferson class of '57. One of the strongest influences in India for the cause of truth and righteousness is the Forman Christian college of Lahore. It is justly proud to tell a Washington audience that the gifted and honored president of that college is Dr. J. C. R. Ewing of the class of '76. Lack of time will not permit me to speak of the educational work of Dr. Arthur Ewing in the Jumna Boys' school of the Furrukhabad mission, of Mr. Robert Stewart in founding the United Presbyterian seminary at Sialcote, of Dr. Happer in founding the Chinese college at Canton, of Dr. McFarland as superintendent of education for the government of Siam, not to mention others who have done a wide-reaching work along educational lines.

The contribution which our college has made to the work of medical missions is considerable. A number of the earlier missionaries, in addition to their theological course, took the degree of medicine, or at least received some medical training. This was true of Dr. Happer and Dr. Speer in China, of Matthew B. Boyd, who went to Singapore, of Francis X. Newton in India, and of Dr. Williamson, who labored among the Indians. More recently specialization has been required on the foreign field, and while a medical degree has been a demand for those who must devote their whole time to medical work. Among those of our alumni who have gone abroad as missionary physicians, may be mentioned Drs. Dale, Lewis and Boyd of China, and Drs. Pollock and Johnson of Africa.

Literary Work Also.

I wish that I might give you an adequate conception of the large amount of literary work done by our alumni on the foreign field. Dr. Dale, one of our greatest authorities on the subject of missions, states "The extent and varied character of the literature given by missionaries to the awakened minds and hearts of multitudes, represent the ripest attainments of modern intellectual life." This witness is true, and it applies to what the graduates of our college have done. Think of the patient toil of Drs. Williamson and Riggs, laboring as they did conjointly for years to translate the whole Scriptures into the Dakota language, and publish besides a grammar and dictionary. Lorrin Andrews published a grammar and a dictionary of the Hawaiian language. Dr. Good devised the Bule alphabet, prepared a Bule primer and translated the four gospels. John Newton wrote the first grammar and dictionary of the Punjabi, and translated parts of the Old Testament, to say nothing of his work in the Hindustain, and of the fact that he laid the foundations for a publishing establishment that in 50 years issued 267,000,000 pages in 10 different languages. Mention should also be made in connection with literary work in India of Drs. Johnson, Wherry, E. B. Newton and J. C. R. Ewing. Drs. Happer, Condit, Corbett, Leyenberger and Hunter have made valuable contributions to Chinese Christian literature. Dr. Corbett is one of the greatest authorities on Chinese language and literature is Calvin W. Mateer. Dr. Jonathan Wilson founded the missionary press in N. Lagos and has corrected some 800 hymns for the Siamese; and opposite the names of McDonald and McFarland must be placed a long list of translations into the Siamese.

Describing Work Abroad.

In addition to such a list, necessarily incomplete, should be noted the books which have been written in English, describing the work abroad, and also the inspiring biographies which the lives of Walter M. Lowrie, George Paul and Adolphus Good have furnished. We pass lightly over these external facts, and little appreciate their significance. Few of us know what it means to be a missionary, to make the sacrifices involved in going, to endure the hardships necessitated by pioneer work, and face the perils of a life among non-Christian people. Two of our alumni have won the martyr's crown—Walter M. Lowrie and Albert O. Johnson.

Graduates of our college have shown great fortitude and have given evidence of great power of leadership in connection with the Boxer uprising in China, for instance, Dr. Inglis, William B. Hamilton and W. O. Elterich. In the recent book by Mr. Robert E. Speer there is a chapter called "Missionary Heroism I Have Known." He first mentions the beautiful, consecrated and noble life of Mr. Calvin W. Mateer, and the second instance he gives of a truly heroic life in that of Dr. A. C. Good, whose noble missionary career came to an end in Africa eight years ago. The lives of our missionary alumni furnish a noble record, and when we think of what they have done it makes us proud of the dear old college; but there is another side which is are bound to think about. Freely the college has received. Think of all the consecrated Christian life that has been invested here, of the prayers that have ascended to the throne that the college might be a fountain of influence sending forth streams of blessing to the uttermost parts of the earth.

Dedicated to Christ.

Think of the large number of alumni who have been dedicated by pious parents to Christ and His service, of the large number who have entered the Christian ministry and the proportion sent to the foreign field is nothing to brag about, especially when we take into account the overwhelming need and the Macedonian cries of distress. Four hundred millions of our fellow creatures in China, 300,000,000 in India and millions of men in other lands have not yet received the Gospel committed to our alma mater. Saints, martyrs and heroes among the alumni have given their lives to bear it to every creature, but what have we done?

The restless millions wait
The light whose dawning maketh all things new;
Christ also waits;
But men are slow and late—
Have we done what we could?
Have I? Have you?

This morning the Rev. Dr. Joseph T. Smith of Baltimore preached in the First Presbyterian church, the Rev. Dr. Carles A. Dickey of Philadelphia in the Second Presbyterian church, the Rev. Dr. Benjamin L. Agnew of Philadelphia in the Third Presbyterian church, the Rev. Dr. R. G. Gracy Ferguson of New Wilmington, president of Westminster college, in the First United Presbyterian church, the Rev. Dr. Thomas A. McCurdy of Wilmington, Del., in the Second United Presbyterian church, the Rev. Dr. Isaac C. Ketler of Grove City, president of Grove City college, in the Cumberland Presbyterian church, the Rev. Dr. W. T. Meloy of Chicago in the First Methodist Episcopal church and the Rev. Dr. Daniel W. Fisher of Hanover, Ind., in the Jefferson Avenue Methodist Episcopal church.

All Churches Crowded.

In the evening the various visiting preachers exchanged, each occupying a different pulpit. All the churches of town were crowded with hundreds of townspeople and visitors. The music was a feature of the religious services.

The whole town has thrown wide open its doors for the accommodation of guests as the local hostelries are unable to accommodate the crowds. Hundreds of people are expected to arrive tomorrow, when the centennial exercises proper will be started. Tomorrow will be alumni day and nearly all the reunions will be held then. A complete list of all the classes who will meet tomorrow has not been made, but a large number of them will congregate in the college buildings, the county court house and private residences. Tomorrow evening there will be a big reception in the main college building to which have been invited all the alumni, old students and friends of the college.

Special trains on all the roads entering the town will be run tomorrow as well as the remaining days of the celebration to enable friends of the institution residing outside of the town to attend the various exercises. Tuesday will be the big day of the celebration and many more people are expected on that day than on other days. The business men of the town will take a holiday and everything will be closed up to enable the residents to take in all the attractions.

Forces of the Unseen.

Dr. Ketler, president of the Grove City college, in his sermon today spoke of the unseen influences which an institution exerts. He said:

I wish to remind you that the spiritual and moral forces which a college calls into existence and directs for the uplifting of men are the pre-eminent elements which enter the making of a great college. Men are greater than money, and character is greater than method. I do not hesitate to say that the ideals which a college fosters, if they are high ideals, are of more intrinsic worth than its material equipments. And I would say, if I were speaking in the presence of men devoted solely to industrial education.

He who thinks he can find the greatness of the college by an inventory of its equipment and money endowments has not yet learned that the things which are seen are temporal. From the depths of my heart I felicitate a community blessed with 100 years of the invisible, yet felt, presence of a university of forces uplifting and potent. I wish to say that the crown of rejoicing for the alumni and friends of the Washington and Jefferson college is not some great material achievement measured by 100 years of noble effort. It is rather the unseen things—the subtle and saving forces which for 100 years have been going out from this college to help and save mankind.

MORGAN MAY JOIN YERKES' FORCES

The Two Americans Who Are Fighting for London Control Likely to Unite.

NEW PROPOSITION MADE

If Man Having Inside Track Accepts It There Will Be Peace. Station Privileges in Piccadilly Circus Bone of Contention.

[SPECIAL CABLE TO THE GAZETTE.]

London, Oct. 12.—There are indications that the huge contest between J. Pierpont Morgan and Charles T. Yerkes for underground London will end in a combination.

The steamship deal has attracted so much attention that this underground railway business has almost escaped notice, although the total capital involved in it is $30,000,000 more than the capital of the new steamship combine. The Morgan applications to parliament will come up for consideration in a few weeks, however, and London will discover at that time the magnitude of the opposing forces, which already have spent $500,000 on lawyers' fees.

The main Morgan line crosses (on paper) one of the chief Yerkes lines underneath Piccadilly circus, one of the most desirable places in London for a station. Yerkes has acquired the site for a station here, but the Morgan group have not been able to get one. An official of the rival forces is my authority for the information that Morgan has offered Yerkes $5,000,000 for the privilege of sharing that Piccadilly circus station, and has also offered $2,500,000 if Yerkes will call off his army of lawyers who are preparing to fight Morgan's application to parliament for permission to build his proposed roads. Yerkes is considering these offers, but has not yet given any answer.

It is said the rivals have been in frequent consultation of late. Work is well advanced on the Yerkes "tubes," and more than half of his system will be in operation inside of two years.

Even if work begins on the Morgan lines at the beginning of next year, as had been hoped, they would not be in complete operation for at least four years yet.

VIENNA MAYOR LEADS ANTI-SEMITE RIOTERS

Troops Called Out When They Attempt to Force Their Way Through a Town.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS CABLE TO THE GAZETTE.]

VIENNA, Oct. 12.—Serious election riots occurred this afternoon at Saint-Poelten after a meeting of the supporters of the Christian Socialist candidate for election to the provincial diet.

Several train loads of anti-Semites, under the leadership of Herr Lueger, burgomaster (mayor) of Vienna, left here to attend the meeting. Herr Fermar, burgomaster of Saint-Poelten, who is a Nationalist, refused to allow the anti-Semites from Vienna to march through the center of Saint Poelten and compelled them to take a circuitous route.

After the meeting the anti-Semites attempted to force their way through the principal streets and broke through a cordon of police and gendarmes. A regiment of infantry was called out and restored order. Many persons were arrested.

Another version of the occurrence says 3,000 anti-Semites were the objects of hostile demonstrations from thousands of members of the Friesinnige party in Saint Poelten; that serious collisions occurred there this evening; that the police were powerless to maintain order, and that the infantry charged the rioters with fixed bayonets.

MACEDONIAN REVOLT GROWING EVERY DAY

Gen. Zontcheff, Its Leader, Escapes from Prison. Turkey Warns Bulgaria.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS CABLE TO THE GAZETTE.]

SOFIA, Oct. 12.—Gen. Zontcheff, president of the Macedonian committee, has again escaped from prison and has gone to Macedonia.

The Macedonian committee asserts that the insurrection is growing daily. It claims that the rebels have destroyed several villages and that they attacked the town of Jumaya, European Turkey, where they captured three Turkish guns but were finally repulsed.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Oct. 12.—Consular and official news, while declaring the reports of the Macedonian committee to be greatly exaggerated, confirms the news of desperate encounters in the districts of Djumabala and Detvitch, where many were killed, wounded or taken prisoners.

The porte has seriously called the attention of Bulgaria to the fact that revolutionists are crossing the frontier.

NEGROES TRY LYNCHING.

Mob Goes After White Planter Who Killed Aged Colored Woman and Injured Man.

HOPKINSVILLE, KY., Oct. 12.—Lloyd Nelson Young, a white planter, crazed by drink, went on a rampage near Pembroke last night, after being put off a train he had flagged.

He secured an ax and brained Rebecca MacRay, an aged negress, whom he met in the road. Leaving the ax with the body, he sprang on Joseph Landy, colored, aged 70, and cut his throat, fatally wounding him.

After terrorizing the citizens for two hours he was overpowered by a posse and brought here for safekeeping early today, to escape a mob of several hundred negroes that had been formed to lynch him.

TWELVE PAGES.

Germany is having a colonial congress at Berlin, considering many matters of possible advantage to the German colonies, but more particularly that of the mother country. No very intense interest has been aroused in any of the subjects except emigration from Germany, which has long claimed the serious attention of the German government. There is no longer any effort to prevent emigration, but the congress is deep in the problem of directing the current where it may be of some value to Germany, the conclusion being unanimous that when a German goes to the United States he is forever lost as a customer or adherent of the Fatherland. In Africa or South America the emigrant from Germany may be depended upon as a factor in the export trade of his native land, but in North America he is able to buy in a better market at home.

Despite all efforts to the contrary, however, it is conceded to be difficult to turn the tide of German emigration away from this country. South America and Africa may contain possibilities for the intelligent, frugal German, but the United States is a certainty, tested by millions who have found prosperity and freedom under its star-spangled banner. It is hard for the German authorities to overcome the desire of discontented people to go where their friends have gone before and found satisfactory conditions, especially when their only real argument is that Germany needs a contribution from them in their new homes to maintain the system that has so long oppressed them. The German with the desire for emigration upon him turns his eyes to the United States as naturally as the emigrating Irishman, unless a special inducement is held out to him in another direction.

This German congress reminds one of the recent conference of the British colonial premiers at London, where Secretary Chamberlain's brilliant schemes of imperial federation were discussed. It came to nothing. Canada has a preferential tariff favoring Great Britain. The other colonies were unwilling to follow its example unless the mother country could do something in return. The opinion prevailed that England did not favor the protective system and would not favor preferential tariffs aimed against its best customers—the United States and continental Europe. Canada's discriminating rates have helped Great Britain very little and Canada none at all. So the United States will continue to sell largely to the British colonies, just as it will continue to attract immigrants from Germany, because it offers better value to its customers and greater advantages to its citizens. Neither Great Britain nor Germany need expect to get much for nothing, which is the practical basis of their colonial conferences.

It is announced that the eminent surgeon brought from Vienna to Chicago at great expense to operate upon little Miss Armour for a peculiar deformity will perform the same operation upon a little Miss Brown free of charge. It is well Miss Armour's father can easily afford the expense, and as the Vienna surgeon will make the other case the occasion for a public clinic to instruct some American surgeons, Mr. Armour will more likely be glad than disconcerted by the facts. In addition to receiving all the benefit he is paying for, he will confer a benefit upon a less fortunate neighbor and upon the public at large.

More than ordinary scientific and public interest attaches to this matter, because it is the introduction of a new system of surgery—bloodless surgery. The particular trouble of the two little Chicago girls is dislocation of the hip joints. Heretofore the only remedy was cutting and remodeling, an altogether serious operation of doubtful efficacy. The eminent Viennese has thought out a method that is bloodless and much more certain of desired results. Of course, there will continue to be many operations for knife and scalpel, but there are a number susceptible to the new treatment which is a distinct gain to surgical science. Mr. Armour is to be congratulated upon being the means of making this knowledge available to the medical profession in America.

In addressing the mass meeting in Philadelphia Saturday night the orators—Judge Pennypacker, Secretary Shaw and Attorney General Elkin—devoted themselves in the main to the record of the Republican party. The real issue before the people of the whole United States in all campaigns is made up from the general record of the national parties in public affairs, and Pennsylvanians have at least as much at stake in the popular verdict to be recorded in November as have the people of any other commonwealth. The performance of the political parties is more important than their promises. Platforms are easily constructed by party rhetoricians, but the made up record of party achievement or failure cannot be disguised or altered with lingual beauties from the dying fires of a Nebraska sunset or in any other way. They are built up by slow and painful processes, and once built are there to stay. Pennypacker is a candidate for governor of Pennsylvania with his platform the record of Democratic failure and incapacity. These platforms cannot be concealed from view, though the principal effort of the Democratic convention at Erie and the principal effort of the Democratic campaign since that time has been directed to the fruitless task of endeavoring to make the people forget that the Democratic party has a past that is the really important thing. It is not readily overlooked. The future of the Democratic party must be forecasted from its past, and not from its promises. What it has done is a guide to what it will do if it is given the chance. What it has done is against it. The promises of the Republican party for the future are all justified by its achievements in the past and in the present. It has no need to ask the people to forget the record. It is a glorious one, and the nation itself and the abundant prosperity of the people are witnesses of its triumphs. To these the Republican candidates and the Republican orators directed attention at the meeting in Philadelphia on Saturday night. What more is necessary?

Fighting on the isthmus is bound to interfere with the movement of commerce. If Admiral Casey stands aside and permits Colombia to send soldiers along the line, it necessarily follows that they and the revolutionists will clash. The latter are seemingly in sufficient force to give battle, and battle cannot but interfere with traffic. The admiral is there to prevent such interference. If he can prevent the belligerents from coming together on the isthmus he can keep the line open; if he does not prevent, the line may be blocked, and once blocked there is no way of knowing how soon it could be opened again nor how large a force of United States soldiers, sailors and marines would be required for the work. Therefore, from Admiral Casey's standpoint, the first duty is to keep the Colombian troops and the revolutionists from trying conclusions anywhere along the strip of territory he is required to keep clear for the benefit of the commerce of the world. It is a delicate situation, and the admiral is endeavoring to end it by making peace.

SOME PRESENT ASPECTS.

Conferences on Saturday of Secretary Root with J. P. Morgan and of Senators Quay and Penrose with President Cassatt of the Pennsylvania railroad reveal a continuance of efforts by "the publicists" (as "one of the coal presidents" termed them after Odell's rebuke) to end the coal strike, and sheds light on the direction it is taking. On Friday Senators Platt, Quay and Pearose and Gov. Odell had the meeting with the presidents of the coal roads and the coal mining corporations that was fruitless of immediate results, but that carried them a step further in their program. Saturday they took an appeal to the higher tribunals of the financial world. A representative of the president of the United States saw Morgan, and two of the publicists of Friday's conference stated the case to a railroad magnate, who, if stock market gossip be well founded, may now hold in his hand the key to the situation. The control of the B. & O. railroad is with the Pennsylvania, and Wall street has it that the B. & O. is now in possession of a majority of the stock of the Reading railroad, of which the principal opponent of a policy of conciliation toward the miners is the chief official. Baer preceded Quay and Penrose to Cassatt. On his disposition toward the strike much depends, especially if through control of the B. & O. his company now has a majority interest in the Reading properties. If it has, the terms of the Reading voting trust will be a small barrier to him if it stands in his way.

The argument for a conciliatory policy toward the miners grows stronger. It was asserted by the presidents of the coal roads at their conference with President Roosevelt that if sufficient protection were afforded the men who desired to work the coal mines would be speedily opened. The National Guard of Pennsylvania has been on the ground for almost a week and the mines remain closed. There has been no movement of the men back to them. On the contrary, reports published in The Gazette indicate that so many of the men who were at work in the mines when the troops arrived have quit; that there are now fewer employed than when the coal men made their declaration to the president. The operators may yet prove their case, but they have not done so up to date. Coal is not being mined with the protection afforded, and there is no better prospect of it being mined by unconditional surrender of the miners on demand of President Baer than there has been at any time since the strike began, and the need for coal continues and grows. In the presence of this deadlock between the coal presidents' union and the mine workers' union the publicists have evidently carried their case to men who are assumed to control the coal presidents, and the result will be awaited with interest and anxiety.

THE AGE OF CEMENT.

A Toronto paper calls attention to the rapidly increasing use of cement in Canada and this country, and is moved to call this the "cement age." There has been truly a tremendous development in the use and production of cement, the statistics for the United States showing 20,000,000 barrels last year, as against 10,000,000 in 1897. The next five years may see the product doubled again, for the engineering practice of the time turns more and more to cement as an auxiliary to structural steel.

This is no more a cement age than it is the age of steel. The blast furnace production of the United States has not increased quite in the same proportion as the production of cement, but it has been far more important. At the same time there has been a large increase in the iron and steel output of Germany. Doubtless the increase is to continue, for the uses of steel have only been fairly discovered. Likewise the uses of cement are only beginning to be understood and extended from the laying of basement floors to the finishing of foundations and walls. In the Pittsburgh district recently the employment of cement has been vastly extended. In combination it has been found to be an excellent substitute for stone.

Pittsburgh's interest in the cement development is broader, however, than merely its increasing use in local structures. A good grade is made from furnace slag, so the production of steel and cement may soon become as intimately associated as their ultimate application. The Illinois Steel Company, at Chicago, has a cement and plaster plant in operation in connection with its furnaces that produces about 2,000 barrels a day. Conditions are not less favorable here, and as the furnaces of Pittsburgh afford vastly more of the raw material than those of Chicago, cement making here may become a great industry.

Up to the present time American furnaces have not felt the necessity of utilizing by-products. The American practice has been directed to securing the highest efficiency of the furnaces in the production of steel. It has been eminently successful. Incidentally, it has utilized some gases and surplus heat in the operation of accessories. But now the disposition of slag as a waste product is becoming an item of expense—one that threatens to increase. Thus it becomes worth while to consider utilization at a profit. The increasing use of cement comes opportunely. Pittsburgh is destined to be the center of production of steel and cement, twin structural materials of the present and immediate future at least.

WILL GET ALL HE WANTS.

The sultan of Bacolod, Mindanao, is in a fair way to get what he says he wants, and more of it than he has bargained for. "I want war, forthwith," says the sultan. He will get it. The American soldiers are there for the purpose of accommodating the sultans of Bacolod and other provinces who are of a mind to have war, and they can show as pretty an article as ever was seen in the line of warfare. The sultan of Bacolod will soon be wishing he had asked for peace, just as some of his fellows have in the past.

"I want to maintain the Mohammedan religion," says this vain-glorious sultan, "and I do not want your friendship." As to his Mohammedan religion, it is entirely safe under American rule, if it does not insist upon maintaining slavery and polygamy in contravention of civilized custom and American law. In regard to the spurned friendship, the sultan will not have it pressed upon him further until he pleads for it. War it will be in Bacolod, and war, forthwith. That war will go forward with an energy and determination to which the sultan of Bacolod has heretofore been a stranger, and when it ends the sultan will have to surrender everything except his religion and will have fewer subjects to relinquish than at present.

The one thing that can be said for the sultan of Bacolod is that he is frank. A good many other chieftains in the Philippines said they wanted peace, but went in for war just the same until they got more than they wanted. Bacolod's frankness will have the reward. He will get the war he wants and will get a square deal afterward on a basis as frank as his own defiant declaration. If there is any other petty monarch in the islands who wants war, also, there is no better time for him to speak out. If the job must be done, 'twere well done quickly.

AN UNLOVED PAIR.

Two recent news items considered of sufficient importance to be cabled to the United States bring again into temporary prominence two European monarchs whose characteristics as revealed from time to time are a rude shock to the monarchical idea and to the remnant of the old superstition of the divine right of kings that bolsters it. Alexander of Servia cut off his queen's "pin money" of $40 a month and was only saved from serious assault by the interference of court attendants, and did have his cars boxed. Leopold of Belgium is called to mind by an open display of sympathy for his daughter, the countess of Lonyay, by the old emperor of Austria, who was the father of her first husband. The troubles of the Servian court have been notorious for two reigns. The late King Milan was in life so unlovely that in death it was impossible to give him the benefit of the maxim, "Say nothing but good of the dead." His son Alexander has been little or no improvement on him, unless it may be in the circumstance that his mean vices are a less tax on his country than the large excesses of his father and predecessor. Leopold appears in the public prints as a cruel parent, no model husband, avaricious, though "generous to a fault if it be his own," and as a poor pattern for any school of virtue. Such publications may do him injustice, but, if so, they are singularly unanimous in it. Neither Servia nor Belgium would suffer were the sovereign to abdicate. There would be probably none to persuade him to a contrary course, and their kingdoms would be gainers by the act. It is to the credit of their brother monarchs that they are not proud of these two and treat them coldly. They have a painful consciousness that the pair do the kingly cult no good.

AUTUMN ARBOR DAY.

Superintendent of Public Instruction Schaeffer has proclaimed Friday, October 17, as Autumn Arbor day, and requests teachers, directors and pupils of the public schools to observe it suitably. This day is particularly intended for rural schools, some of which adjourn before the planting time in spring. But it has a higher significance, being instructive in the fact that trees may be planted as well in the fall as in spring. Many hardy and orchard trees thrive better when planted in the fall, the peach being the most notable exception always to be planted in spring.

Of course, every one understands that the actual plantings on arbor days will not reforest the land or go far toward modifying climatic conditions. But that is no reason why the day should be neglected. The school that can have a forester, nurseryman or orchardist demonstrate how a tree should be planted in October and explain how it should be cared for will secure as valuable a practical lesson as might be taught in one day. Rural school grounds will be the better for the ornamentation of beautiful trees, and the lesson can be made to bear fruit in home planting and in creating a right sentiment about forestry.

Arbor day is not an idle sentiment or a waste of time. The love of trees and the knowledge of them is important. There are so many places where trees would add to the pleasure and welfare of humanity that it is a praiseworthy task to teach the people that tree planting is neither difficult nor expensive. No branch of nature study in the schools promises more practical results than arboriculture, either from the point of view of private advantage or the public good. The time has come when forestry is becoming profitable as a profession and necessary to the country as an economic measure.

If the civil authorities of the anthracite coal region had displayed half the diligence and zeal for the maintenance of law and order and the repression of violence as has appeared in the attempt to get Private Wadsworth of the Eighteenth regiment behind the bars there might have been no need for the services of the National Guard in the strike districts.

Since President Roosevelt's address on the Fourth of July, Pittsburgh has not been selected for as important an utterance on public policies as the address to be delivered by Attorney General Knox before the chamber of commerce on Tuesday evening. He will pursue the chief topic of the president's discourse on the former occasion.

The boiling of the political pot once more brings to the surface a reference to the fact that the delinquent tax collector of Pittsburgh continues to daily with an income almost twice as large as that paid George Washington as president of the United States. But of course he earns it!

President Truesdale has begun hedging on the operators' promise to produce coal if protected. He now says the miners were ready to return to work, but seeing political pressure applied they determined to stay out. This is begging the question.

The crown prince of Siam called on President Roosevelt on Saturday. He had his name with him, but it is understood the president didn't tackle it, as he has his hands pretty well employed with the coal strike just now and is still on crutches.

It is one Samuel P. Conner who says that bogus tax receipts were issued in the last municipal campaign. By the way, isn't this the same Conner that was afflicted with that tired feeling in advance of the February election?

James Francis Burke has challenged his opponent, H. K. Porter, to a joint debate. What's the use, James, what's the use? Take both sides of the subject yourself. We all know you're equal to it.

AUTUMN VOYAGE LOSES ITS TERROR

The Globe-Trotter No Longer Minds the Season If He Has a Good Ship.

THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE BUREAU,
Herald Building, Herald Square,
NEW YORK, Oct. 12.

When one has the Atlantic voyage habit nothing can break it. The weather at sea has been tempestuous of late, just as it is always when equinoctial gales are raging; but in spite of that there has been a good run of passenger business on the various lines. Taking that sterling old steamer of the Cunard line, Campania, which sailed from New York for Liverpool yesterday. The passenger list was nearly as long as it would be in the height of the summer season. It was noticed that most of the voyagers were English people returning home after a sojourn of a few weeks on this side, but with them were many Americans who have business or pleasure engagements in Europe and are not afraid to brave wintry winds and mountainous waves so long as they feel that they have a good ship under them. There were two Pittsburghers among them, too. They were Mr. and Mrs. Upson A. Andrews, prominent residents of the East End, who are well-known in society. Mr. Andrews is an official of the Pittsburgh Coal Company. Other Western Pennsylvanians aboard were Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Wilson and G. L. Potter, all of Franklin. The English climate in winter is not pleasant, as a rule, varying between fog and sun, with a touch of frost now and then; but the people on the Campania yesterday generally expressed their pleasure at going home, showing that home is home, no matter how bad may be the climate. Steamship agents say that there are more persons traveling in the winter each year, and that in time there will be little difference between the volume of winter and summer voyaging. There was a time, and not many years ago, when such a large passenger list as the Campania had yesterday would have been almost impossible in the middle of October; but it was not regarded yesterday as anything particularly extraordinary, even though it was more imposing than that of any regular Atlantic liner leaving this port for a month past. Ocean traveling is agreeable at any season to the inveterate globe trotter.

Molineux's Crucial Time Coming.

Roland B. Molineux, in his cell in the Tombs, has had an anxious Sunday of it. He will be put on trial for his life for the second time tomorrow, according to present intentions, and he feels that it will be a crucial matter for him. Much is said about the coolness with which Molineux takes his situation, and that he is almost cheerful in prison. So far as can be seen, that is true, probably; but that he is eating his heart out, to use a common expression, there is no doubt. That is what his keepers say, when they will consent to mention him at all. With all this, however, there is a general opinion that Molineux will be acquitted by his new jury.

Flats Chilly and Cheerless.

This has not been the most comfortable Sunday for a majority of New Yorkers. That portion of the population that lives in flats and "apartments," which probably is 75 per cent of the whole, have not had as much warmth as they would like. In most of the apartment houses landlords have been begging the question of procuring coal, by not lighting the fires for steam heat. They say that it is not time for turning on the steam anyhow, since October has not far advanced. Many of them will not do it until the 1st of November in any year, if they can help it; and this year they take advantage of that custom by saying that it is not yet cold enough weather for artificial heating. On Sunday, when many men remain at home for their regular weekly rest, apartments should be warm and comfortable, if ever they are. That is the plea of the flat-dweller; but he can only bow in submission to the dictum of the landlord as issued through the janitor, that there can be no steam at present, although few landlords will confess that they have had any difficulty in procuring a fuel supply. The average flat house owner will not admit anything that may be detrimental to his own interests, directly or indirectly.

Things Going to Suit Devery.

W. S. Devery stood at the "pump" this morning, after church, looking as if he had not a care in the world. He is a wholesome, well-groomed looking man, and shows in every lineament that he is in the habit of going to bed at a reasonable hour and getting his full eight hours of sleep. He is entirely satisfied with the way things are going in the Ninth district, he says, and he looks it. While the campaign was raging a few weeks ago, "Big Bill" was obliged to sit up late for many nights, but now he is reaping the reward of his labors then and can be the comfortable citizen he always looks to be. He was the happiest appearing man on Eighth avenue today.

The Bridge Carnage Goes On.

So interested has New York at large been in the coal famine, that it has not paid much attention to the Brooklyn bridge crush of late. That disgrace to the city still flourishes, however. The scenes of turmoil and danger have increased in violence in the past few weeks, and it seems as if plans to relieve it have dropped at least partly out of the minds of the authorities. Once in a while we hear of some suggestion for doing away with all the trouble, but nothing comes of it except a few windy conferences and a great deal of mystery in the bridge commissioners' office. That it is a difficult problem, is allowed; but, in the meantime windows are broken, clothing is destroyed and women and children are injured every afternoon at the bridge entrance. The regulations—if any exist—are worse than ever, and conditions at the Brooklyn end are made more terrifying by the use of soft coal for the engines of the "L" trains. Perhaps when the coal strike is settled, there may be a renewal of interest in the bridge troubles; but unless something is done soon there will be fewer persons to care for, because a lot of them will be killed outright in the daily melee.

Playwright Thomas a Stump Speaker.

Augustus Thomas, the playwright, is deeply interested in politics. He makes a good speech and he delivered several of them for W. J. Bryan in the last presidential campaign. Now that politics is getting hot and Democratic headquarters have been established at the Hoffman house, as of old, Gus stops there every day and tries to work out the salvation of the Empire state at the coming election. His genial personality helps him in forcing his arguments home, and when he begins a little impromptu address in the lobby of the hotel, it is a common thing to see a group of Republicans from the Fifth Avenue hotel, adjoining listening to his remarks and cheering his manner of delivery, even when they do not agree with his sentiments.

Old Crop of Overcoats Appears.

One of the signs of approaching winter is the collection of sunburned, snow-faded and generally disreputable overcoats which have blossomed out on Broadway. Nowhere but in New York can one see so many overcoats of the vintage of three or four years ago every fall. It seems as if men here want to be quite sure what the styles in overcoats will be before investing in new garments, and that they wear any old thing for a few weeks until they are ready to buy a new one. Even the church-going folk this morning exhibited a collection of overcoats that few self-respecting Pittsburghers would care to wear on a Sunday.

Where Promenaders Enjoy Exercise.

Of all the stretches of sidewalk loved of Sunday promenaders, there is none more popular than the west side of Broadway at Herald square. The two new department stores are responsible for this. On Saturday nights, when the store which has opened for business has its large show windows lighted up and full of brilliant-hued millinery and haberdashery, one can understand why the crowd is so great that one can hardly get along. On Sunday there is no such attraction. The shades are pulled down and the complete store is as dull of aspect as that of Macy's, in the next block, which seems still to be a very long way from its opening. The sidewalk is so wide, however, that Sunday promenaders enjoy the mere exercise of walking leisurely along, and they do not care whether there are any show windows on exhibition or not. A year ago, when everything was torn up in Herald square, the strollers kept below Greeley square, or went up to Longacre square; but these two stores have made all possible difference, and today people gravitate naturally to Thirty-fourth street when anyone proposes a little walk along Broadway.

The New Sleuth.

With the advent of the new deputy police commissioner, Capt. Piper, there is a revival of the old sleuthing ways of Theodore Roosevelt, when he was a police commissioner in this city. Capt. Piper believes in discipline. He is also particular that policemen shall attend to their business when they are supposed to be on post. He has caught one or two men behaving carelessly when they were out for patrol duty, and the suddenness with which they braced up when they heard his sharp words of command, spoke well for the innate earnestness of the ordinary policeman in New York city. It may be that with a strict hand over it, the police department may improve. That is the hope of the public, at least.

Tim Sullivan's Lieutenant.

Although Big Tim Sullivan will not go again to the state legislature this time, he will send his own man there. His district is the lower East Side, and if there is a Republican down there he hardly dares to vote without a body guard. A nomination by the Democratic convention, therefore, is tantamount to election, and all that Big Tim had to do to retain the district in the hollow of his hand was to put up the man he wanted. That man is one of his most trusted lieutenants, John C. Fitzgerald, who is known as "Happy John Fitz." It is the pitiful habit of Tammany politicians, particularly in the Bowery districts, to tack some adjective, like "Happy" or "Big" to the names of active members of the organization as a mark of especial popularity. "Happy Fitz" is one of the boys, and when he gets to the state senate he will be expected to temper statesman-like dignity with good-fellowship that shall embrace all his constituents, severally or together.

Coal Talk on Sunday.

The coal situation has been discussed industriously today, Sunday and all as it is. Whether anything particular will be done officially, is something that cannot be answered positively; but it is sure that the gravity of the situation has been taken as a good excuse for giving thought to secular matters, even by men who are as a rule rather strict Sabbatarians.

Only One Stage Novelty.

The theatrical sensation of the ensuing week will be Charles Frohman's production of the old Dutch religious play, "Everyman." With that exception, this promises to be a week devoid of novelties on the stage. The various stars and plays which have been running for some time are all high in popular favor, so that there is no pressing reason for substituting something else for any of them.

After Yom Kippur.

Yom Kippur is over and New York today seems to have awakened from the lethargy that overtook it as the sun went down on Friday. In spite of the rain, there have been a great many people in the streets all day, while down in the Ghetto it was a day of business and pleasure combined that kept everyone on the move. There are laws against Sunday selling of certain commodities, but these laws are honored more in the breach than in the observance in the Hebrew quarters, and so long as there is not too much commercial disorder the police wink at the conditions. It is noticed that since several policement have been placed under indictment for clubbing mourners at the funeral of Rabbi Joseph, there is less disposition to interfere with East Side Hebrews in any way than used to be the case. The police have discovered, perhaps somewhat to their astonishment, that public sentiment, as well as the law, is opposed to their ill treatment.

Tammany Methods Among Janitors.

After trying to arrange salaries satisfactory for some of the teachers, the board of education is turning its attention to the janitors. The charge is made that janitors employ unsatisfactory and cheap labor to clean the buildings, and that while the janitors make a good thing of it, the cleaners have to get along on starvation wages. Janitors have a way of making a little out of their subordinates when they can, and the board means to take a hand, much to the disgust of the autocrat of the basement. It is not asserted that the school buildings are not well looked after, but that the men doing the work do not get their fair share of the money appropriated for that department. Hence these janitors' tears.

Dr. Joseph E. Willetts gave his bachelor's dinner at the University club Saturday night, to 25 friends. Those present were George Reed, Dr. William Ewing, A. A. Morris, Dr. T. L. Hazzard, Dr. A. Koenig, S. W. B. Moorhead, R. B. King, Dr. John S. Mahon, Dr. J. Chris. Lange, N. C. Wilson, Carl Tindle, Dr. T. M. T. McKennan, Dr. M. S. McKennan, W. G. Doolittle, M. K. Corser, J. L. Prestley, Capt. H. G. Nesbit, E. B. Vail, T. Clifton Jenkins, Dr. Clark George, George White, Dr. O. C. Gaub and Dr. Karl Emerling. The table decorations were red, there being used American Beauties, other roses, gladiolas and carnations. Each guest was provided with a full-sized horseshoe, with his name and "Bachelor's Dinner 'de Willets'" engraved thereon, which was suspended about the neck by means of a broad red ribbon. The affair was exceedingly entertaining, so say the guests, and not all of them got home for a 5-cent fare. Dr. Willets and bride will go to the Mediterranean, returning through Italy, Spain, Germany and France.

"The buildings in America are so high. Why, in my native town of Trondhjems, Norway, none of the houses are over two stories." This was the observation made last night by Miss Dori Moxnes, a beautiful young Norwegian woman, who is traveling alone and visiting all the prominent American cities, before joining her relatives in Wisconsin. She is the daughter of an officer in the Scandinavian army, and having graduated from the Trondhjems Technical school, has come to the United States to teach in the Norwegian colony. "I was afraid to go into those high buildings in New York," she said. "In Philadelphia I saw more of them. In Washington city I was induced to go to the top of that fine monument to Gen. Washington, and now I will go up in the Frick building and see this busy city of Pittsburgh. Don't you think I'm brave?"

Capt. and Mrs. W. B. Rodgers and members of the family went to Philadelphia in a special car on fast line last night to attend the wedding at noon Tuesday in the Hotel Aldine of J. Norwood Rodgers, a son of Capt. Rodgers, to Miss Dora Browning, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George C. Browning. The Pittsburgh party, beside Capt. and Mrs. Rodgers, included Mrs. C. C. Rodgers of Clairington, O.; Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Rodgers, Miss Isla Rodgers, Miss Alice Rodgers, Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Rodgers, Jr., Masters Will and Clay Rodgers, Mrs. Clara E. Hunker, Miss Mary Getts, J. F. Getts, Frederick A. East, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Graham and Mrs. George Watson and daughter of Sewickley.

At the Monongahela house last night were C. C. Dewalce, postmaster of Cleveland; O. M. Brainard, superintendent of the Cleveland postoffice city delivery; John C. Rowland, Sr., and S. A. Hart of Cleveland, and L. W. Clark of Dennison, Texas, who are returning from the Grand Army encampment in Washington. Messrs. Dewstoe and Clark formerly lived in Michigan and had not met in 42 years until they happened to be assigned to the same room in a Washington hotel.

"The McKinley monument will be more than a simple memorial to the martyred president—it will be an everlasting testimonial to the patriotism of American youth," said W. P. Bartlett of Chicago, who was a passenger on the Pennsylvania limited last night. "Not long ago I saw Judge William R. Day, and he said that among the most enthusiastic contributors to the fund were children, who gave of their penny savings to help the good cause."

Dr. D. P. Fredericks of Oil City, Pa., arrived in Pittsburgh last night and today will enter the open tournament on the links of the Pittsburgh Golf club. Dr. Fredericks is well known in this city, where his work in the recent Chicago match was watched with much interest. He is at the Hotel Lincoln.

M. Nawa, an instructor in the Imperial university in Kyoto, Japan, is in Pittsburgh to study railroad engineering and management. He said that a course of instruction in railroad engineering would be introduced in his university.

J. Leonard Levy, rabbi of the Eighth Street Jewish temple, went to Philadelphia last night. "I'll be there just about three hours," he said.

Just Like Finding It.

From the Indiana Messenger.

The other morning when we went down to breakfast we found in the pantry a sack of buckwheat flour from the roller mills of Hetrick & Wilson, in this place. On the front of the shipping tag is our own name and address. On the reverse side we find the following:

"COMPLIMENTS
—of—
C. H. YUCKENBERG
and
D. W. KRYTZER.
TO BE PAID FOR AFTER PATTISON IS ELECTED."

If that is not getting something for nothing we don't know what is. Next!

MYSTIC ANSWERS OF WEEGIE BOARD

Latest Table Talking Device Reported from Duquesne Heights.

MRS. JACOB T. SMITH of Duquesne heights, who recently returned from a long trip through Ohio, brought with her a "weegie" board. It has been the summer sensation in the Buckeye state and it has been entertaining the denizens of Duquesne heights since it reached there. It is a comparatively simple contrivance, but it has caused more furore than the spiritual rappings that so disturbed Western Pennsylvania 40 years ago. It is inexpensive, too. It consists of an ordinary flat piece of board about two feet in length and possibly 14 inches in width, on which the letters of the alphabet are marked. This is only half what is needed. A similar piece of board eight inches long or thereabouts, and four or five inches wide, having in the center a hole just large enough to cover one of the letters.

Two persons are necessary to use the board, although half a dozen can participate in it. The modus operandi is something like this. These persons seat themselves about the board with the smaller board lying flat upon the larger. These persons place the tips of the fingers of one hand upon the small board. Sometimes the board will at once begin talking without anything being said; all that is necessary being a question mentally, addressed to it by one of the persons who have their finger tips on the smaller board. A small party of Mrs. Smith's friends called upon her one evening shortly after her return home, and she told them of the wonderful intelligence of the "weegie" board. All were curious to see it, and the board was produced. Five of them sat about the board and placed their finger tips upon it. Mrs. Smith was about to participate when one of the party objected, saying that they wished to test it without her interference. She consented, and instructed one of the parties to address the following question to the board.

"Is there any one here to talk to me?"

The person that asked the question was startled to find the next moment that the smaller board with the hole in the center began to slide about the larger board. Each began to accuse the other of moving it, and the suspected one invariably indignantly denied that they had done anything except to allow the finger tips of one hand to touch gently the smaller board. After some talking and laughing Mrs. Smith explained that almost absolute silence was necessary to get the best performance.

When the question was repeated there was silence, as those in the room had become convinced that there was something uncanny about it. Slowly the smaller board moved until the hole in the center covered the letter "Y." It stopped for a moment until one of the persons repeated aloud "Y." Again it moved over the board as though searching for something until it stopped over the letter "E." The letter "E" was repeated aloud by one of those about the board, and the smaller board moved along until it rested over the letter "S." This spelled "yes" plainly, and the person asking the question repeated the answer aloud, "yes." By this time, some of the ladies in the party were pale, but the questioner again addressed the board by saying, "Who is it?"

The board moved as before, spelling a name which the questioner recognized as that of an acquaintance then in New York on business, but said she had not thought of him and the others did not know him. Many questions were asked and always pertinent answers were secured.

The fame of the "weegie" board has spread throughout the hill district, and many copies of it have been made, which work equally well. Sometimes the reply to the initial question is "no" and during that evening no amount of coaxing will get anything from the apparatus. Many explanations are offered, ranging from the supernatural to the magnetic and psychological, but the fact remains, as the hilltoppers tell, that the board moves and spells out secrets known only to the person supposed to be talking.

MINERS GROWING MORE EFFICIENT

Amount of Coal Produced Per Man Employed Steadily Increases.

Anthracite Field Nearly Double In Number of Accidents That Result Fatally—Figures for 12 Years By Geological Survey.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 12.—The volume on mineral resources of the United States for the calendar year of 1901, now in press, United States geological survey, presents some interesting statistics of the labor in the coal mines of the country.

In 1898, the average number of men employed was 401,221, and they averaged 190 working days during the year, producing 219,974,667 short tons of coal, valued at $208,000,850; in 1899, 410,395 men working 214 days produced 253,739,992 short tons, valued at $256,077,464; in 1900, 448,581 men working 212 days produced 269,682,827 short tons, valued at $306,671,364; in 1901, 458,544 men working 216 days produced 293,208,516 short tons, valued at $348,910,459. In 1898, the average price of coal per ton was 95 cents; in 1899, it was $1 01; in 1900, it was $1 14; in 1901, it was $1 19.

According to the two great divisions of the coal industry, the bituminous and the anthracite, the statistics are as follows:

Production Steadily Increases.

In the bituminous coal industry in 1890, 192,504 men working 226 days produced 111,302,922 short tons, valued at $110,420,801, an average of 2.56 tons per man per day, and of 579 tons per man per year; in 1895, 239,062 men working 194 days produced 135,118,193 short tons, valued at $115,779,771, an average of 2.90 tons per man per day and of 563 tons per man per year; in 1900, 304,375 men in 234 days produced 212,214,912 short tons, valued at $220,913,513, or 2.98 tons per day and 697 tons per man per year; in 1901, 340,235 men in 225 days produced 225,826,849 short tons, valued at $236,466,449, or 2.94 tons per man per day and 664 tons per man per year. The average price of bituminous coal per short ton in 1890 was 99 cents; in 1895, 86 cents; in 1900, $1 04; in 1901, $1 05.

In the anthracite mines in 1890, the number of miners was 126,000, who in 260 days produced 46,468,641 short tons, valued at $66,383,772, the average production being 1.85 tons per man per day and 369 tons per man per year; in 1895, 142,917 men produced in 196 days 57,999,337 short tons, valued at $82,019,272, an average of 2.07 short tons per man per day and of 406 tons per man per year; in 1900, 144,206 men working 166 days produced 57,367,915 short tons, valued at $85,757,851, or 2.40 short tons per man per day and 398 tons per man per year; in 1901, 145,309 men worked 196 days and produced 67,471,667 short tons, valued at $112,504,020, an average production of 2.36 short tons per man per day and of 464 tons per man per year.

Price Also Increases.

The average price per short ton of anthracite coal in 1890 was $1 43; in 1895 it was $1 41; in 1900 it was $1 49, and in 1901 it was $1 67. The number of workers in the anthracite mines has increased from 126,000 in 1890 to 145,309 in 1901, or over 15 per cent. During the same period the number of men in the bituminous mines has increased from 192,204 to 340,235, or little over 77 per cent.

The statistics of accidents in the mines in the calendar year 1901, already published in part, show that 1,467 men were killed, 3,643 men were injured, and 188,608 tons of coal were mined for each life lost. In the bituminous mines of the country 954 men were killed and 2,409 were injured, in a total of 340,235 men at work; in the anthracite mines 513 men were killed and 1,234 were injured, in a total of 145,309 at work.

The statistics for Pennsylvania alone show 301 men killed, 656 men injured and an average of 273,288 short tons of coal mined for each life lost in the bituminous mines; and 513 men killed, 1,243 men injured, and an average of 131,524 short tons of coal mined for each life lost in the anthracite mines. It is interesting to note that in Pennsylvania the number of short tons of bituminous coal mined per life lost was a little more than double the number of short tons of coal mined per life lost in the anthracite mines.

ORDINATION TONIGHT.

George H. Seville Will Be Inducted Into the Baptist Ministry.

At the First Baptist church, Wilkinsburg, tonight George H. Seville, a recent graduate of the United Presbyterian seminary, Allegheny, who renounced the tenets of that denomination on account of his views on immersion as a proper mode of baptism, will be ordained as a minister of the Baptist church with the usual elaborate ceremonies.

The day following his ordination the Rev. Mr. Seville will leave for Chicago, en route for China, where he will labor under the direction of the China Inland mission. The ordination of a foreign missionary is rather a rare ceremony. At a recent council of the churches comprising the Pittsburgh Baptist association it was recommended that Mr. Seville be accepted to the ministry under their care.

SOLDIERS TO VOTE WHILE IN FIELD

Guardsmen Not to Be Deprived of Suffrage at Coming State Election.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

HARRISBURG, PA., Oct. 12.—Should the troops on duty in the strike territory remain in the field until after the November election, Gov. Stone will have to appoint commissioners to receive the votes of the soldiers and deliver the returns to the state department to be computed.

During the Spanish-American war Gov. Stone appointed a commissioner for each regiment under an act passed by the general assembly during the civil war and which is still in force.

These commissioners will establish polling places in the various company headquarters, with election boards similar to those in regular election districts, and keep the polls open for certain periods during the day. The voter will give his residence and his vote will be added to the vote returned by the regular election board of the district in which he resides. The returns are brought to Harrisburg by the commissioners and filed in the state department, the clerks of which add to the returns filed from the proper districts.

Health Board Quits.

NEW CASTLE, PA., Oct. 12.—(Special.)—The borough of Hazel Dell, this county, is now without a board of health, all the officers having resigned. The trouble grew out of the recent smallpox cases. The Hazel Dell authorities were greatly interfered with, they claim, in attending the few cases there, and recently the health officer resigned. No one could be secured to take his place and now all the members of the board of health have followed suit.

IN THE DOMAIN OF WOMEN

ART IN LINENS

EVERY truly feminine woman loves fine linens. The collection of handsome pieces in the household is a habit of the centuries. The shops recognize the feminine fondness for these tempting textiles by bringing together the finest productions of the linen looms of today.

The aristocrats among the table linens are the double damasks. In weave, texture and design, they are masterpieces of the art of fine linen fabrication. The designs this autumn are treated with a largeness, breadth, grace and effectiveness truly artistic. Seen at one of the shops among the collections of new table linens was a cloth of Flemish double damask in a pattern having the water lily for its motif. There was a deep border woven in a design as of a placid expanse of water, the serenity of surface disturbed only by the many petalled blooms of the Queen of the Lake breaking through with many ripples. The center of the cloth was decorated with a conventionalized treatment of foliage and swirling, sinuous lines, the whole interpretation of the design showing the influence of l'art nouveau in its originality, grave, symmetry and breadth.

Browsing among the flowers, the designer has been inspired to some of his most successful achievements. The floral patterns are many, varying from the dainty little lily of the valley to autumn's valiant herald, the chrysanthemum.

A Flemish double damask cloth has the center strewn with bouquets of the valley lilies having all the air of dainty grace of the real flowers. There is a deep surrounding border of the bouquets of tiny bell-like flowers, thickly massed with roses and caught together with broad ribbons.

Another of these cloths which represent the acme of linen luxuriousness has a deep border of magnolia sprays, the much magnified blossoms and leaves dropped along the edge with graceful negligence. The center of the cloth is strewn with smaller blossoms.

"In days of old when knights were bold," the peacock was served most splendidly at the festal feudal board. It was brought in on a golden platter, dressed in its own brilliant plumage, attended by the fairest maiden of the court and with a jubilant fanfare of trumpets. Fittingly, therefore, does the proud bird adorn the fine linen which is to cover the festal board of the modern dining room. Perhaps the handsomest damask cloth seen had a border formed of a row of proudly strutting peacocks, with spreading tails.

Among the novelties this autumn are the striped damask table sciothes. They are in designs of either the straight stripes, with harmonizing borders, or in wavy stripes, these latter being particularly handsome.

A CHILD'S HAPPINESS.

NO wicked man is wholly wrong if he can look back once in awhile to a sweet, wholesome day in his wayward life. No erring woman is lost whose eyes brim with tears as there rushes across her vision some scene in her innocent youth when the sun shone on a brightly upturned little face, and dancing baby feet keeping time to the heart-beat of happiness. But there is not much hope for the regeneration of unhappy men and women whose childhood was barren and hard. They might pardon circumstances for the wreck of their after-lives, but for a miserable childhood they cannot forgive God.

So it does mean something when we carelessly and roughly turn the bright hues of hope in a baby breast into the gloom of mourning. It means something definite and very important to his future when our little one murmurs into a tender ear, "Mother, I've had a happy day."

There are no little things in life. The airy trifles are the mighty forces which turn the material wheels of our existence. Who knows at what instant we are changing the tenor of a human career! A light word at a wrong time, a blighting sentence when tenderness was needed, mockery when one should have been serious, and gloom when the eye should have beamed with joy—all these mistakes are the spades that dig graves for those over whom our influence is strong, and for whose welfare we are responsible, forever.

It seems to me that women—and men—might judiciously spend a little more of their time in working over that fair structure of child-life which is to outlast infancy, and less on temporary things. A child's happiness is not created by those factors that are termed prudential. Over and above the necessary things he craves a healthful atmosphere. Give him the best of food, the finest clothes, the choicest luxuries of surroundings and he may not be happy, and he may be. That is according as these circumstances are interpreted to his inner sense by his guardians.

BREATHE FRESH AIR.

THE season draws near when the "fresh air fiend" and the "draught dodger" come again into prominence. There is, however, a happy medium. One eminent authority on the ventilation of houses insists that they should never be "air tight." They should be allowed to "breathe," he says. Innumerable small crevices should be left about the door and window framing—too small to be noticeable except in the freshness and purity of the atmosphere. Draughts, he admits, are bad, also sudden transition from a high to a low temperature, but he insists that there are ten deaths from a superabundance of artificial heat to one cause by low temperature. Zero weather is far from unhealthy—in fact, the air then is particularly free from germs and full of ozone. Superheater air is apt to hold too much carbon dioxid, the oxygen having been exhausted. A simple but sure test of the purity of a room's atmosphere is to put two tablespoonsful of lime water into a wide mouthed pint bottle, which has been filled with water outside of the room and then half emptied after it has been brought into the room which is to be tested. If the water becomes milky the air is full of carbonic gas, and not fit to breathe.

Airtight clothing is also injurious. Chamois skin or oil silk worn near the skin prevents the passing off of the waste matter, which the pores are constantly excreting. In short, the skin needs to "breathe." Clothing should be sufficiently loose and porous to permit a gradual exchange of the air next the skin with the outer atmosphere. One hears the expression, "It is impossible to live on air," but, as a matter of fact, human beings do subsist very largely on air, and a much quoted phrase may be made to read: "Tell me what you breathe and I'll tell you what you are," and be even more true than as originally used.—New York Tribune.

WAR CORRESPONDENT A CAPTIVE OF CUPID

Mrs. Idah Margaret Timmerman, Daughter of the Countessa Pedraza Martinez de la Resa, and Bride of Mr. Douglas Story, of Scotland.

Mrs. Ida Margaret Timmerman, a young and handsome widow, an accomplished linguist and musician, has just become the bride of Mr. Douglas Story, a Scotch journalist. Mrs. Timmerman is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Canfield, of San Francisco. Her father is the general agent of the C. M. and St. Paul Railroad, with large mining interests; her mother was the Countess Pedrasa Martinez de la Rosa, of an ancient Madrid family with extensive estates in Cuba.

Mr. Douglas Story is the eldest son of Dan F. Story, Esq., J. B., of the Glen and Flemington, Peebleshire, Scotland.

Mr. Story came to the United States in January, 1901, by request of Mr. J. Gordon Bennett, to write a series of articles upon his impression of the country for the New York Herald. He accompanied the Prince of Wales in his tour round Canada in the fall of 1901, and since then has contributed largely to magazines in this country.

The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Dr. Henry C. Park, of the Woburn Unitarian Church. E. J. Ridgway, of New York city, was the best man, and Mrs. George K. Maltby, of Boston, was the matron of honor.

WINTER HOUSE WEAR.

A SMART little blouse for house wear is made up in ivory white velveteen. It has no lining whatever, because it would be too hot and too heavy in our torrid astomphere produced by an American house furnace.

The back shows five box-plaits laid up and down the velveteen, edged with machine stitching. The central one disappears beneath the neck band, but the other four are cut long enough so come over the shoulders, as far as a shallow yoke would do. They terminate on the breast with rounding ends, and are fastened down by a flat medallion button of jet. The front of the blouse shows the same arrangement of plaits of stitched velveteen. The central boxplait differs from those on each side, because it has a single medallion of cut jet placed directly beneath the neck band, and one at the lower extremity, which is slipped beneath the girdle and hangs two inches below the lowered waist line.

The bodice is bloused in front and all the other plaits are cut short by the girdle, which dips in the middle of the front.

The sleeves are cut full and too long for the arm. The horizontal redundancy of materials is confined in five broad plaits as far as the elbow. From that point it expands in a small balloon puff, until gathered into a wristband of machine stitched velveteen. The excess length of the puff is held in place by tapes, which are measured to spread taut from elbow to wristband. The girdle is a narrow dias fold of stitched velvet, and the neckband is a strip of black moire ribbon, piped with the ivory-white velveteen.

FOR WORKING WOMEN.

FOR constant wear, black China silk makes a most acceptable blouse, worn with walking length skirt. Turnover collars and cuffs to match, plain, hemstitched or embroidered in black or white silk cat-stitching, relieve the somberness and add a becoming relief of white where it shows off to good advantage.

These sets are of mull, French muslin or linen and are easily made. Those of linen with fancy design in hemstitching carry a smart air and sell from $1.50 upwards. They are pointed and scalloped in varied styles. The girl who likes fancy work can make these for herself for a trifling cost.

THINGS WE SEE.

A DANGEROUS-LOOKING nickel rifle among the desk fittings proves to be the sheath for a paper knife.

Embroidered taffetas show the liking for the old English embroidery. They are worked in soft tones and in Persian effects.

Brass ink wells of beautiful repousse work and graceful design are being sold at one of the big shops for $5, reduced from $10.

Desk furnishings are constantly increasing in variety of material and design. Advance showings in the stores reveal many of the new utensils in plain and ornamental brass. Full sets in this metal range in price from $25 to $150.

THE BEDROOM.

IF any spot on earth should be touched by the dear sunlight and breathed on by the sweet air of heaven, that spot is the bedroom, where every human being spends at least one-third of the time. Never sleep in a room that the sunlight cannot get into, as you value your health. The bedroom should not have much furniture or much drapery in it. The ideal sleeping room should have long windows, with thin curtains and pretty walls, finished in soft, grayish pink or blue or other restful color of a pale shade, with mattress and light weight bed covering of choice materials, but no cluttering, dust-catching draperies, and no upholstered or stuffed furniture.

THE HUMILIATION AND EXALTATION

Bishop James N. Fitzgerald Preached on Christ's Earthly Life.

AUDIENCE OF THOUSANDS

West End Methodist Episcopal Church Was Crowded to the Walls—Many Ordained Elders and Deacons in the Church.

Bishop James N. Fitzgerald occupied the pulpit in the West End Methodist Episcopal church yesterday morning and preached an interesting sermon to the largest crowd ever seen within the walls of the church. Nearly all the visitors to the Pittsburgh conference and all those ministers who were not assigned to preach in local churches were present. His text was taken from St. John xix.:19, and his subject was "The Humiliation and Exhaltation of Christ."

The bishop said: "When Christ visited this earth he was humiliated beyond human endurance. He was mocked at, spat upon and derided. When he was on trial for his life, the people turned from him to the criminal Barrabas. He was called a Nazarene. That was the worst possible thing one could be called in those days. It was a synonym for dishonor, deceit and general degradation. The one called that name was the object of the supremest contempt. When our Savior was crucified, Pontius Pilate placed a sign on his cross with the words, 'Jesus of Nazarus, King of the Jews.'

Was King of the World.

"He was 'King of the Jews.' He was born of Jewish lineage. To the people of today the word king is associated with honor, riches and power. In those days the 'King of the Jews' meant just the reverse. But Christ was more than 'King of the Jews.' He was a king. He was and is the king of the world.

"If any subject of England or the United States should visit a foreign country, he would feel sure that if any indignity were placed upon him, he would be protected by the vast resources of those countries. If he were unjustly persecuted, he would be avenged by a vast army. The same is true of those who are subjects of Christ. They can go anywhere and feel sure that the Lord will take care of them. The exhaltation of Christ is in the homage paid him by millions of Christians here on earth.

"Another noticeable difference between Christ and earthly rulers is that He loves his enemies and keeps watch and ward over them. The time is coming when all will be under His sheltering wing, when all people will acknowledge Him and worship Him. Then more than ever will He be king of the world.

Great Mission Work.

"The Methodists are sending missionaries to the uttermost corners of the world teaching the gospel. The work is practically in its infancy now; there are so many that have never been taught the word and work of Jesus Christ. But the time will come, I am sure of it, when all the world will be Christian.

"The work of our Savior has been wonderful. His aim has been to free the oppressed. This is rapidly being done. Within the recollection of some of you a great race was freed from the bondage of slavery in this country. Those people are now being taught Christianity and many of them have acknowledged Christ. So the work will go on until every sinner is saved."

Prior to the bishop's sermon, a conference love feast was held, conducted by the Rev. Latshaw McGuire. In the afternoon the ordination of deacons and elders took place. The bishop was assisted in the ordination service by the Rev. E. J. Knox, presiding elder of the Allegheny district; the Rev. W. P. Turner of the Blairsville district; the Rev. T. N. Boyle of the Pittsburgh district, and the Rev. James Mechen of the Washington district.

New Deacons and Elders.

The following were ordained deacons: The Rev. McIlvar H. Lichliter, the Rev. Titus Lowe, the Rev. Herman S. Piper, the Rev. Grant S. Pollock, the Rev. Franklin L. Teets, the Rev. Thomas Forneer, the Rev. Harry S. Humbert and the Rev. Norman B. Pierstone.

The following were ordained elders: The Rev. Richard B. Cuthbert, the Rev. George Grant, the Rev. Harry P. Johnson, the Rev. Alfred C. Elliott, the Rev. Walter B. Bergen, the Rev. William J. Lowstetter and the Rev. Ralph Hill. After presenting the newly ordained deacons and elders with their certificates, the bishop made a short address to them.

The ordination services were followed by a Pentecostal service, conducted by the Rev. T. J. Leak.

At the evening session of the conference the Rev. F. B. Lynch of the Philadelphia conference made an address to the Church Extension society. He said that $30 would build a new church in Manila and $250 would build one in the far west, while one could be built in the mountain districts of East Tennessee and North Carolina for $100, these figures being for the materials alone, it being expected that the congregations would do the work.

Announcements Come Today.

During the evening $250 was raised for the erection of a church on the western frontier to be dedicated to the memory of the Rev. William Lynch, the speakers' father, who died at Creighton recently in his 85th year. He had been a member of the Pittsburgh conference for 63 years.

The appointing of the three new presiding elders for the Pittsburgh conference, the much discussed event, will take place this morning. At the conference session at 9 o'clock, Bishop Fitzgerald will announce the names of the men he has selected. Meanwhile those mentioned for the places and their friends who have been urging their appointments are on the anxious bench. The appointment of pastors will also be announced today.

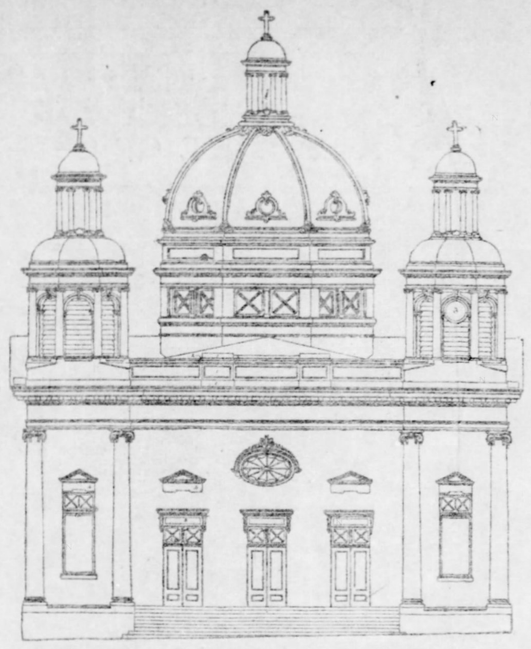
HANDSOME NEW CHURCH TO BE BUILT FOR CATHOLICS OF NATRONA



St. Ladislaus' Roman Catholic Church at Natrona.

The congregation of St. Ladislaus' Roman Catholic church at Natrona, over which the Rev. Father A. Sewcic presides, looks forward eagerly to the time when they can occupy their new house of worship. The church will be one of the most beautiful edifices in the entire Pittsburgh district and will be a striking example of the pure Renaissance style of architecture. The design is that of Architect Sidney F. Heckert, who is a strong adherent of Renaissance types. The walls of the building are to be of sandstone trimmed with terra cotta. The interior will be finished throughout in hard wood, with elaborate Renaissance plaster work. A feature of the construction will be the lighting by electricity, a beautiful effect having been arranged for in the dome of the church. The church will seat 600 persons and will cost at least $35,000.

"LIBERTY AND LAW" IN THE COAL STRIKE

The Rev. E. W. Thornton Says Each Side Must Consider Other's Interests.

At the First Christian church, Hazelwood avenue, yesterday morning, the Rev. E. W. Thornton preached a sermon on "Liberty and Law." He said in part:

"Liberty is exemption from restraint. Law is what liberty is not. Law is the imposition of restraint. The nations that have taken their places in the forefront of civilization have done so by their unwritten laws. Liberty and law are seemingly antagonistic, but they are both essential. The one is a universal desire, the other is a universal need. Liberty, without law, means anarchy and indiscriminate murder; law without liberty means despotism and indiscriminate execution.

The problem of the ages has been the welding of these two. Ecclesiastics, socialists, philosophers, moralists and anarchists have attempted it in vain. There is but one solution, and that is found in the principles of the teachings of Jesus Christ. Every theory ever advanced has possessed merit, to the extent that it contained those principles. In the present contest, between capital and labor, when the operator learns that 'the laws of the Lord is perfect' and none other; and when the striker learns to 'do unto others as he would have others do him,' and when they both learn to consider each other's interests, as well as their own, then they will have learned the simplest, yet the most complex lesson of the ages—the harmonious blending of liberty and law."

DREW LESSONS FROM THE LIFE OF JOSHUA

The Rev. Dr. John K. McClurkin Told of His Fitness for His Great Work.

The Rev. Dr. John Knox McClurkin, pastor of the Shadyside United Presbyterian church, preached yesterday on "A Brave Man for a Great Work," taking his text from Hebrew iv:8: "If Joshua had given them rest, then would he not afterward have spoken of another day." Dr. McClurkin said in part:

"As the name of Abraham Lincoln stands for the liberty of the black man, as the name of William the Conqueror stands for the civilization of Britain, as Garibaldi is the symbol of Italian freedom, and Leonidas the emblem of the deliverance of Greece, so the name of Joshua stands for the entrance, the conquest, and the division of the Land of Promise. We note, first: His training. Second: His work. Third: His departure. He grew up in the brick fields of Egypt. He knew in his youth what hard work means. He was the close companion of Moses. There is no surer index of character than the company we keep, the close companions we choose.

"Joshua, too, was trained in the privileges of the sanctuary. Before the tabernacle was set up, when Moses' tent was the place of meeting with God, Joshua remained in the tent—departed not from it. He there learned of the glory of God. When the young man loves the house of God, when he has in the church a meeting place with God, he is laying a promising foundation for future success.

"Near the city of Jericho he beheld a wonderful sight. A heavenly warrior appeared with a drawn sword in his hand. Joshua went valiantly up to him and demanded: 'Art thou for us, or against us?' The answer came: 'Nay, but as captain of the Lord's host, am I come.' Joshua learned the lesson. The Lord, not himself, was to be the leader in Israel. Joshua fell at his feet and surrendered.

"But now the excitement of battle is past. He calls all Israel before him, and like George Washington, gives a farewell address that is faithful, loving and hopeful. In this memorable address the old warrior, who had seen the brick kilns of Egypt, the 10 plagues, the passage of the Red Sea, the glory of Sinai, the march of 40 years in the wilderness, the passage of the Jordan—he, he old hero of Jericho, gives his public farewell testimony. It is this: 'Not one thing has failed of all that the Lord our God has promised.'

"Joshua, last of all, was a prophecy of Christ. In his name, Joshua, or Jesus, in gaining the land of rest, in securing the inheritance for each tribe, is a figure of Him who was to come. Therefore, our text says: 'If Joshua had given them rest, then would he not have spoken of another day.'"

DUTY TO ONE'S SELF.

The Rev. G. E. Hawes Gave Some Sound Advice.

The Rev. G. E. Hawes, pastor of the Braddock United Presbyterian church, in closing a communion season, spoke last night on the duty one owes to himself. He said:

"One owes it to himself to get into such condition of mind and heart where he can be most natural, and develop most easily. A condition of sin is not a normal condition. We are no more ourselves when yielding to the sinister forces of the present than is the bird caught in the net.

"It is when these things are severed that our grateful hearts rise naturally and spontaneously into the life for which we were made. We were born to be righteous. As the wise man puts it, 'God made man upright, but He has sought out many strange devices.' These strange devices have come to be like the false joint made by a broken limb, they seem to work sufficiently well and to serve the purpose. But any one knows the limb which has never been hurt is the normal limb. And when the broken limb can be made like the limb which has never been broken do we feel satisfied.

"The whole man, therefore, is able to work to the full extent and work easily only when brought into the form of the type, Jesus Christ. We owe it to ourselves to put away, therefore, everything that hinders, and as persons who have been let go seek our own place in the fellowship of God."

Dedication Next Sunday.

The trustees of the First Baptist church of Braddock, of which the Rev. George T. Street is pastor, have decided that the new church will be dedicated on Sunday next, as last scheduled. The date has been changed four times, because of the inability of the contractors to secure material. The edifice cost $20,000, and is the second to be built by the congregation in 22 years. The Rev. Dr. J. Howard Harris, president of Bucknell university, will preach the dedicatory address in the morning, and will also preach at night.

LABORING MEN'S RIGHT TO UNITE

The Rev. Dr. L. C. Barnes Talks on the Anthracite Strike.

FAVORS TRADE UNIONS

He Defends Principle of Labor Organizations and Pleads Humanity's Imperfection as Excuse for Their Faults.

The Rev. Dr. L. C. Barnes, pastor of the Fourth Avenue Baptist church, spoke last night on "The Coal Strike and Labor Unions," taking for his text, John, xvii.:21, "That they may all be one; even as Thou, Father, art in union with me, and I in union with Thee, that they may also be in union with us." In his address Dr. Barnes likened the holy trinity to a great labor union. He said in part:

"The anthracite coal strike has become a national event of great magnitude and vital consequences. It is a foremost subject in the press and prominent in the pulpit everywhere. Vast problems are involved. Happy is the man in his fool's paradise, who imagines he understands it all. In the immense tangle, a thread at a time must be carefully worked out. This evening but a single phase of the subject can be considered—the right of labor to unite.

Have a Right to Unite.

"Eight years ago I advocated from this pulpit the need and importance of labor unions. In that short period there has been a vast advance in public sentiment, until to day no one denies the right of laborers to form unions. But while this is admitted in the abstract, in the concrete labor unionism is frequently denounced, and such terrible events as are taking place at the present time in the anthracite coal region are liable to prejudice the minds of some against labor unions in general. There are two things we ought to endeavor to do in the matter.

"First: To discriminate. The riot and bloodshed that are taking place are utterly inexcusable and deserve unmitigated condemnation. Much of this is perpetrated by those who are not members of labor unions. Any portion of it that is attributable to members of the union is to be set down to their personal disgrace and real antagonism to union principles.

All Organizations Imperfect.

"Labor leaders have been most pronounced in condemnation of it. There are other evils that are frequently connected with labor unions; for instance, good workmen are held back on a level with poor workmen. They have a right to make this sacrifice of personal interest for the common good.

"Sometimes tyranny, in an aggravated form, arises in the conduct of labor unions, but all these evils are incidental to every organization made up of imperfect human beings. Civil government has been subject to the abuses of tyranny again and again. The church has not been free at all times from tyranny. Holier than state, and than church, is the family, the most sacred organization on earth; yet how often has it been disgraced by tyranny. No one of these necessary and most salutary organizations can be condemned because of abuses connected with it.

"The second thing that we need to do is to lay hold of the deep principles underlying unionism. It is not only a right of laborers to combine, it is one of their surest duties, for the sake of their fellows and the general good, as well as themselves and their families.

In Union Is Strength.

"I belong myself to a labor union of one kind; a union of 1,000,000 people, or more, in the northern states, to do the greatest work that has ever been undertaken—to carry a knowledge of Christ to every human being on this planet.

"There was a labor union for the same end in the eternal world, the great primal labor union of Father, Son and Holy Spirit.

"The divinest thing in human life is wide union with others, in sympathy and practical effort. The small man has fellow-feeling for a few; the larger a man is the wider are his active sympathies. The time is coming when a thoroughgoing union between capital and labor themselves will be achieved. The short cut to obtaining the principle underlying the widest fellowship is the reception in our lives of the spirit of the Man of Nazareth."

OPENING MARKED BY ENTHUSIASM

Carlisle Indian Band Proved Great Attraction at Bijou Services.

WORK WAS EXCELLENT

Big Chorus and Participation of Audience in Singing Added to Effect—The Rev. S. Edward Young Had Charge.

Phenomenal enthusiasm yesterday marked the opening of the Sunday afternoon religious services by the Rev. S. Edward Young in the Bijou theater. The Indian band from the Carlisle Industrial school was heard in Pittsburgh for the first time and when the bronze-skinned lads played the accompaniment to the familiar hymn, "Jesus, Saviour, Pilot Me," 2,000 persons joined in the song—pastor, audience, choir, scene-pushers and burly stage-hands lifted up their voices with one accord. It was a scene never to be forgotten, and when the singing ended the great auditorium resounded with the sacred echoes of that grand old melody.

The Indian musicians gave a remarkable performance. When it is remembered that the fathers of the Carlisle students knew no music except the weird notes of the tom-tom and the shrieks of the wild dance songs, their rendition of compositions of Gounod and Paderewski seem all the more marvelous. The band's program included "Nearer, My God, to Thee," a paraphrase; "The Pilgrim's Song of Hope," "Song of the Voyager" and a trombone solo, "For All Eternity," by Robert Bruce, a student who was raised in a tepee among one of the far western tribes.

May Tour Europe.

James R. Wheelock, an Oneida Indian, is the leader of the band and has been instructor of music for 15 years. The present band was organized by him about three years ago and has filled important engagements in New York, Philadelphia, the Pan American exposition and next year will give concerts at the Louisiana Purchase exposition in St. Louis. Mr. Wheelock expects also to take his musicians abroad.

An augmented choir of 80 voices was under the direction of Benjamin Franklin Butts, musical director of the Second Presbyterian church. Samuel M. Brown was the accompanist. Printed sheets, containing the words of the hymns, were distributed through the audience and the singing of the congregation was a feature of the services. Mr. Butts sang two solos.

The audience included many representative people of the two cities and the majority were churchgoers, who have pledged their support to the meetings. There were some, however, who were unfamiliar with the sacred order of the services, but their enthusiasm, when they joined in the singing, was proof that the Sunday afternoon meetings would again win popular favor.

Character Building.

Character building was Mr. Young's theme. His sermon was brief and its conciseness suited his audience. The pastor compared man's creation to the work of the potter, who fashions a vase of the most exquisite design from the rough clay of the hills. He said in part:

"Like the potter dreaming out in the soggy earth a beautiful vase, does the Almighty see in you a splendid possibility? Workman-in-clay, what is thy vision? Wait, and you shall behold it taking form. Divine Workman in human clay, what is Thy dream for me? Be patient, child; be plastic and you shall find it shaping into symmetry. You mother wrapped in reverie o'er her babe, each hope a prayer; a father's heart, planning great things for his darling boy—these are faint reflections of the Heavenly Parent's forethinking tenderly for every child of His.

"Like the almost perfected vase going to pieces in the potter's hand, have you wrecked in the making? Like the potter, see the Master stooping down amidst the mangled hopes, gathering up the shivverings, splicing them together, reconstructing a semblance to the shattered vessel; begins ever so mildly to run the wheel once more, smooth the joints, compact the crevices and, flinty rebel cast out, to make even yet His dream a beautiful reality. My soul! How sweet the picture is! Shall the Heavenly Potter be allowed to take up your life now and make it again?"

THE THREE RIVERS

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

CINCINNATI, O., Oct. 12.—Stage of the river, 9.1 feet and rising. Clear and pleasant. The entire Kanawha fleet, except the Douglass Bush, turned back with supplies for headwaters. The Douglass Hall took the tow to Louisville. The Relief returned from Madison, where she delivered a tow of coal. The Keystone State was let off the ways today and the Queen City hauled on to have her hull recalked.

LOUISVILLE—River rising; canal, 4.3 feet; falls, 2.1 feet; foot of locks, 6.6 feet. Business quiet. Weather clear and pleasant. Stanley left for Cincinnati, 9 a. m. Packets on time. The L. H. Buhrman left for Cincinnati last night in complete repair to take in tow to Cairo. The new government light on the abutment at the head of Indian chute shows up well.

MEMPHIS—River 12 feet. The Ferd Herold having been delayed on account of roustabouts, will get away early in the morning for Cairo.

News of the Rivers.

At 9 o'clock last night at the Davis island dam the marks indicated a depth of 8.6 feet and the river was rising.

The City of Savannah will be floated off Cottonwood bar in a few days.

The tie towing on Green river promises to be good as soon as the river rises and the locks are opened. There are hundreds of thousands of ties awaiting shipment.

In December, 1867, the towboat Condor towed 100,000 bushels of Pomeroy coal to Louisville and it was sold as soon as it hit the bank at 50 cents a bushel. The barge load in 1901 coal sold at retail there for 50 cents a bushel and scarce at that price.

The men under Capt. Granville Shaw of the engineering corps, who, since the low water season set in have been building a new dam and repairing a dik down on the Louisville falls, are finishing up the work. The dam is constructed of concrete.

University Club May Go to East End

The University club held its annual meeting Saturday night. The following officers were elected: President, the Hon. John D. Shaffer; vice president, the Hon. William M. Kennedy. Mr. Mitchell, a member of the board, was elected secretary-treasurer in place of M. K. Coster, resigned. The question of moving the club to the East End was informally discussed and further action postponed until the next meeting.

Pirates Defeat Sharon---Jockeys Barred from French Turf

PIRATES DEFEAT SHARON'S TEAM

First Game of Barnstorming Tour Is Easily Won.

MERRITT'S GREAT SPEED

He Gave the Independent Nine But Six Hits—Errors Frequent on Both Sides—Kerr Batted Well.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

Sharon, Pa., Oct. 12.—This was a red-letter day for the baseball fans of Sharon and the 2,000 people who watched the Pittsburgh champions play the Independents thoroughly enjoyed the sport even though the locals lost. The weather was just right for the game and the attendance was a record-breaker.

Chief Zimmer and his braves played with so much snap that their work was greatly enjoyed. It was obvious to the crowd that the Independents had stage fright, but after the first three innings they put up a good article of ball.

The champions took the lead from the first, and at no stage of the game were they headed. Merritt was on the slab for Pittsburgh. He was in fine form and had lots of speed. He held the locals down to six scattered hits.

Kerr Batted Well.

Kerr was the only player who succeeded in landing on his delivery. He made three pretty singles, but was unable to score either time. Burke played a fine game at second. He made some difficult stops and throws and stole bases almost at will.

Tommy Leach at third only had one chance during the game, and that was a short infield fly. Big Hans Wagner figured in a double play, but fell down on a grounder that was responsible for a run. His work at short was good.

Hyland pitched the first four innings for Sharon. He was a trifle nervous, but only four hits were made from his delivery. McNeil finished on the rubber.

His first inning was a bad one, and before the last man was out four runs had been scored. He settled down after that and no more runs were secured. Crum played a star game in middle field for Sharon.

Champions Start to Score.

Pittsburgh got right into the game at the start. The first two men were easy, then the fun started. One man was passed to first, three singles followed, and with the bases Kerr dropped a long fly in left field and all scored. Five runs were scored in this inning.

In the fifth four more were secured on three hits, a base on balls and two errors. Pittsburgh got men on the bases in nearly every inning, but were unable to score. Sharon got three runs in the fifth on two bases on balls and errors by Wagner and Leever. In the eighth another run was made on three singles. The club returned to Pittsburgh tonight. The score:

PIRATES LOST THE LAST.

All-Americans Won the Cleveland Game from the Champions Saturday.

That the Pittsburgh champions are the best baseball players in the world has been demonstrated by the series with the All-Americans, composed of the pick of the members of the rival league. Although the Pirates were defeated in Cleveland Saturday afternoon by a score of 1 to 0, they won the series, taking two games, tying one and losing the last.

Tommy Leach's error in the seventh inning was partially responsible for the loss of the Cleveland contest. Deacon Phillippe did slab duty for Pittsburgh, while the veteran Cyrus Young was on the firing line for the All-Americans. Clarke's out at the home plate in the fourth killed the champion's chances for winning. The score:

ALL-NATIONALS WON.

Big League Players Took First Contest from All-American Team.

CHICAGO, Oct. 12.—The picked teams of the National and American league, which will start this week on a western tour, that will take in San Francisco and Honolulu, played their initial game here today, when the All-Nationals defeated the All-Americans by a score of 7 to 3.

Although the contest was held on the grounds of the American league, the rules of the National league prevailed. Score by innings:

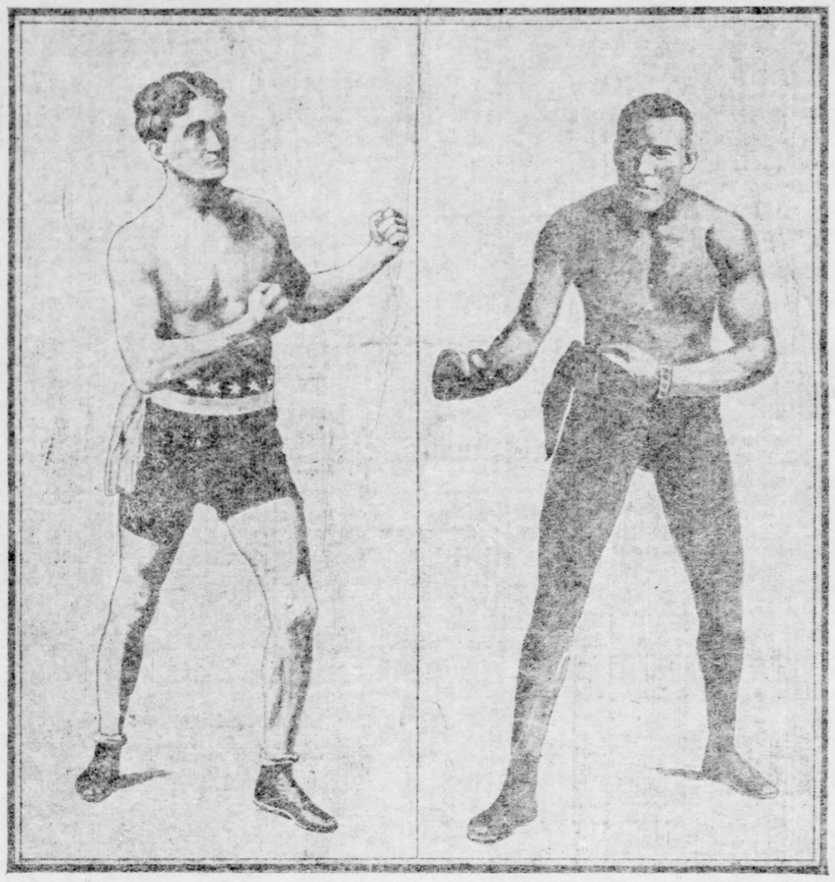
WILL CONTEST FOR LIGHTWEIGHT CHAMPIONSHIP.



KID M'PARTLAND. JOE GANS.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Oct. 12.—Before the International Athletic club tomorrow night Joe Gans, the lightweight champion of the world, will be called upon to defend his title in a 20-round contest against Kid McPartland of New York.

Both Gans and McPartland are trained to the hour, and their meeting should result in one of the most scientific contests ever boxed in this country between lightweights.

The betting has been very spirited, Gans ruling favorite, the odds being 7 to 5, and at these odds a large amount of money has been placed.

Three times McPartland and Gans have met in the ring. Once Gans earned a lusty decision at the end of 20 rounds, when the pair varied the monotony of ordinary affairs by belting each other to the floor more than once. Since that time they have indulged in a couple of six-round draws.

Gans and his manager, Al Herford, have not been over-eager to meet McPartland since Gans defeated Erne, and, perhaps, it is as McPartland says when he observed the other day: "Gans knows that he will not have a man afraid of him when he meets me. I remember that when we fought the last time in Chicago he began to hang on me in the clinches, and when I shook him off he appealed to the referee, declaring I was rough.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

"I think Gans will find something in my work that he will remember when we meet on Monday night, and under the clean-cut rules of the Canadian authorities he will have little opportunity to kick about roughness."

One thing that will probably count more against McPartland than at first expected is the fact that he is making 133 pounds, a weight which while not high for a legitimate lightweight, really crowds the kid a little. Gans to win in the ring seems a popular bet, but with memory of the negro's affair with McGovern in mind, some of the bettors are chary about tackling anything but a straight proposition on results.

LANTZ PLAYS WITH EAST END ELEVEN

Famous Strong Man Will Be Member of Manager Walsh's Team This Season.

The management of the East End Athletic football team has secured the services of Walter Lantz, the strong man, and hereafter he will be found in the regular line-up of the team in all the games scheduled for the season.

Lantz has been in Ottawa, Can., for some time, but arrived in Pittsburgh last Friday. He practiced with the East End eleven on Friday night, but being slightly unfamiliar with the team's signals, did not take part in the whole game with the Lyceum Saturday afternoon.

The big fellow was allowed to go in toward the latter part of the second half, however, and distinguished himself by pushing the entire Lyceum eleven back for a loss of several yards on a number of occasions. Lantz's regular position will be at left guard.

He is said to be even stronger than either Barney or Kohen, local performers of feats of strength. Manager Berry of the Pittsburgh football team wanted to sign Lantz, but he preferred to play for Manager Walsh's team.

The showing made by the East End eleven Saturday against Lyceum was very creditable, considering the miserable condition of the gridiron. The team is well trained and the coaches will put the members through a hard week's practice in preparation for the contest next Saturday at Friendship park when the eleven meets the A. A. A. A.

The four-A team is a strong aggregation. This fact was demonstrated on Saturday by the defeat of the Sewickley Y. M. C. A. team, which is a good one. Great preparations are being made for Saturday's game, and it will undoubtedly be one of the best local amateur contests of the present season.

On Saturday, October 25, the East End eleven will line up against the Pittsburgh team of all stars at Colosseum park, Allegheny. One of the features of this game will be the playing of the strong men. Lantz will be at left guard for E. E. A. A. and Coach Richardson will place Barney at right guard.

THE ABBOT TO RACE.

Ex-Champion Trotter Will Oppose Lord Derby at Memphis This Month.

NEW YORK, Oct. 12.—The ex-champion of the world, The Abbott, 2:03¼, will make his first appearance of the season at the Memphis meeting the latter part of this month, when he will start in the free-for-all trot.

The former champion will have for an opponent E. E. Smathers' great gelding Lord Derby, 2:03¾. The pair were scheduled to meet at the Brighton Beach meet but The Abbott went lame and the race had to be called off.

Ever since The Abbott has been given the best of care under the watchful eye of the veteran Ed Geers, with the hope that he would be able to go a fast mile at the Memphis course. If both horses are at their best the race should be an interesting one.

Lord Derby has few equals when it comes to a flight of speed, but The Abbott has the advantage of having the cleverest reinsman in the world behind him when he goes to the wire. Lord Derby is also a protege of Geers, and he knows the gelding's weak points as well as his strong ones.

Mr. Smathers is anxious to give Lord Derby as low a mark as possible, and Spears will have orders to drive the son of Mambrino King to the limit.

KRAMER LOST TEN MILE CYCLE RACE

HIS TIRE WENT FLAT IN NINTH MILE.

Floyd McFarland Looked Like a Winner but Iver Lawson Sprinted Over Tape First.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS TO THE GAZETTE.]

NEWARK, N. J., Oct. 12.—At the Vailsburg bicycle races today the 10-mile professional event proved to be the most interesting. Kramer's tire went flat in the ninth mile, putting the rider out of it.

The men were divided into three bunches, scratch, 150 yards and 300 yards, and they did not get together in one bunch until the fifth mile.

McFarland, Lawson and J. Bedell were in front at the bell and they had the finish to themselves. Lawson sprinted in fine style in the stretch and won by a length, with Bedell half a length before McFarland.

In the quarter mile for professionals Lawson won by a length from Kimble, who had a fight for the place with Krebs. Kramer was shut out in his preliminary heat, finishing third. In the half mile handicap for amateurs Root of Boston showed plenty of speed and won with something to spare. In the five-mile handicap for amateurs Schlee won the contest after being practically out of it. Attendance, 3,500. Summaries:

Half mile handicap, amateur—Won by E. F. Root, Boston (scratch); Michael Coffey, Newark (20 yards), second; Edwin Bailey, New York (30 yards), third. Time, 1:07 2-5.

Quarter mile handicap (professional)—Won by Iver Lawson, Salt Lake City (10 yards); Owen S. Kimble, Louisville (15 yards), second; Floyd Krebs, Newark (20 yards), third. Time, 0:29 2-5.

Ten mile handicap (professional)—Won by Iver Lawson, Salt Lake City (scratch); John Bedell Lyndbrook, L. I. (150 yards), second; Floyd McFarland, San Jose (scratch), third. Time, 22:24.

Five mile handicap, amateur—Won by Charles Schlee, Newark (50 yards); E. F. Root, Boston (scratch), second; C. L. Hollister, Boston (150 yards), third. Time, 11:43. Winner of lap prizes—Edwin Goodwin, New York.

TERRY M'GOVERN MATCHED.

Ex-Champion to Fight Benny Yanger Before He Meets Young Corbett.

NEW YORK, Oct. 12.—Benny Yanger, the Chicago featherweight, and Terry McGovern were matched today to meet in a 20-round contest before the club offering the best inducements, the contest to take place before McGovern's meeting with Young Corbett.

AMONG THE AMATEURS.

The Tigers of Allegheny would like to hear from all 70 to 80-pound teams. Address Robson, 120 Allegheny avenue.

Any out of town team desiring games with the Pittsburgh Deaf Mutes A. C. for October 18, should address J. S. Fisher, 3212 Brereton avenue.

Unique A. C. defeated the Watson A. C. yesterday at High Bridge 15 to 6. The features were the end runs by J. Eiben and Dupont, and the line bucking by Smith, Jones and Kuhlman.

The Madison Tigers would like to hear from a good 90 to 100-pound team. A Thanksgiving game is desired away from home with some out-of-town team. Address Newton Meyers, Clarissa street.

The Pastime II. team is out for the 90-pound championship of Western Pennsylvania, and would like to hear from all teams of that weight. The Pastimes II will line up against Pittsburgh College III. on the college campus Tuesday afternoon. Address John Roberts, 1819 Cliff street.

South Side A. C. would like to hear from some good 110 or 115-pound team for a game to be played on South Side. Will give full expenses for 15 men. Emeralds, West Lake A. C., Ex-Altoonas, Pittsburgh Reserves, Highwood A. C., Greenfield and Tiddleville preferred. Address William Timmont, 98 Elm street.

WASH-JEFF READY TO MEET LAFAYETTE

No Players Injured Saturday and Strongest Line Up Will Be Presented Tuesday.

WASHINGTON, PA., Oct. 12.—There will probably be no practice at College park for the W. & J. football team tomorrow afternoon, as the players' suits are thoroughly soaked with mud and water.

It is not desired to give the men hard practice as they must be in good condition for the hard contest with the Lafayette college eleven Tuesday.

Football followers here are very much elated over the showing made by the local team in the game yesterday with the Reserve eleven, and taken as a whole the team is as strong for this period in the season as at any time in previous years.

The tackles' back play is being worked to advantage. Capt. Hayes is especially effective at this play. Heimberger is also getting into the play well, and with two such big men at the tackle positions the tackle back play will undoubtedly be used often.

None of the men were hurt in the game yesterday, probably on account of the soft condition of the grounds for some very rough tactics were used at times. Sweet makes a very fast end and has the knack of getting around the opposing end and down the field quickly.

Enthusiasm is shown for the game with Lafayette Tuesday and if the weather conditions are favorable an immense crowd is looked for. W. & J. will present her strongest line-up to the visitors in this game.

Sutter will no doubt be able to get back into the playing, as his cracked rib is almost healed. Special trains will be run from all points in this section, as well as from Pittsburgh.

JOHNSON DENIES REPORT.

American League President Claims National Team Will Not Be Acquired in St. Louis.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

CHICAGO, Oct. 12.—President Ban Johnson returned from St. Louis yesterday, and would not admit that there is any strong probability that the American league will acquire the National league interests in the Mound City. From what he did say on the subject, however, it seems probable that such a deal may develop later.

St. Louis reports indicate that the Robisons are in sere financial straits—in fact, that the Cardinal club has been badly embarrassed for some time. St. Louis baseball affairs will bear watching and may bring out interesting developments in the near future.

In discussing the St. Louis story yesterday President Johnson said:

"There is little foundation for the story emanating from St. Louis that the American league would secure control of the National league club of that city. We are strongly interested in the Mound City, and little would be gained in buying out the opposition."

Celebrated Its Anniversary.

The German Evangelical Lutheran church of Millvale yesterday celebrated its 25th anniversary. The first services were held at 11 a. m. The sermon was delivered by the Rev. M. Hein, of the Zion German Evangelical Lutheran church of Pittsburgh; the altar services were conducted by the Rev. E. Totske, pastor of the church. An elaborate musical program was led by Prof. Schumann of the Zion German Evangelical church, assisted by a large choir from the Zion church.

FAMOUS JOCKEYS RULED FROM TURF

Licenses of Henry and Martin Withdrawn by French Jockey Club.

SHADY RIDING CHARGED

Detectives Claimed to Have Found Evidence That the American Boys Prevented Favorites from Winning.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS TO THE GAZETTE.]

Paris, Oct. 12.—LeSoir announces tonight that the Jockey club today withdrew the licenses of the American jockeys Milton Henry and J. Reiff, excluding them from riding on any French racecourse.

This action is an outcome, says the paper, of very careful investigation made by the detective department, which secured proofs that Henry and Reiff upon several occasions have prevented favorites from winning.

The owners of the horses in question are innocent of any part in the transactions. The detective department is powerless to interfere with jockeys for such offenses, and therefore put the matter in the hands of the Jockey club.

LeSoir adds that the action of the Jockey club will be welcomed by every one, and that it will put an end to the suspicion involving all American jockeys in France, among whom there are several very honest men.

Today's action by the club, continues the paper, will serve as a lesson to those jockeys "who still frequent night saloons surrounded by shady racing characters."

"The only regret which might be associated with this measure of the Jockey club," says LeSoir, "is that we are to be deprived of two incomparable artists who often gave spectacles of palpitating struggles in which shrewdness and skill had replaced the brutal methods of former times."

Milton Henry and J. Reiff have been the two most successful jockeys on French race courses this season. Henry headed the list of winners.

Not a day passed without his securing several wins and places. J. Reiff today got two firsts out of three mounts at the Bois de Boulogne, while Milton Henry got a first and two seconds out of five mounts.

Reiff got a first and second out of four mounts at Maison Laffitte, Friday, while Henry got two firsts and one second out of six mounts at the same meeting.

STRONG TEAM WORK MUST BE DEVELOPED

Coach Richardson Will Give Pittsburgh Eleven Some Hard Practice This Week.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

GREENSBURG, PA., Oct. 12.—The Pittsburgh eleven came out of Saturday's game without a scratch. Today the members of the squad took a six-mile walk across country to relieve any soreness that may have been occasioned in the game with the Philadelphians, and tomorrow the hardest work of the year will be begun.

Coach Richardson is well pleased with the individual strength of the team shown in Saturday's game, but he insists that there was little or no display of team work. This was especially noticeable when the line men were given the ball.

Manager Berry has scheduled two games each week for the balance of the season. The Cottage A. C. eleven of Pittsburgh will play in Greensburg on Wednesday. No effort will be made to run up a big score, the perfecting of the formation being the one end desired by Richardson.

The work of Kirkhoff in advancing the ball Saturday has been the subject of much comment. Manager Berry was unable to secure a pair of football shoes big enough for the big fellow, and it was necessary to purchase a pair of the rough shoes worn by the miners in the pit. A special order has been placed for shoes for Kirkhoff.

Next Saturday's game at the Colosseum will be with Bucknell. The defeat of the Carlisle Indians on Saturday by the Lewisburg boys by the score of 18 to 0 has boosted Bucknell's stock 50 per cent, and Coach Richardson appreciates the necessity of doing the hardest kind of work this week.

Morning and afternoon practice will be held each day. Mathewson and Lawler will be placed at full and guard. No additional men will be signed.

NEW Y. M. C. A. BRANCH.

One Is to Be Organized In the Lawrenceville Section Tonight.

A meeting will be held this evening in the Forty-third street Presbyterian church to organize a branch of the Young Women's Christian association for the Lawrenceville district. Mrs. Fannie M. Seifer has already been appointed secretary for the new branch and will lose no time in forming classes.

Last night the matter was presented to the people of Lawrenceville in four of their churches by women prominent in the work of the association, in a manner that was interesting and which it is certain awakened a spirit of co-operation that cannot fail to be of benefit.

WEEKLY REVIEW OF MARKET PRICES

Hams and Breakfast Bacon Advanced—Fresh Corn and Tomatoes Lower.

Except for advances in both grades of timothy, No. 1 mixed and No. 1 clover hay, there have been no changes in quotations in the hay and grain market since last Monday. There has been marked improvement in all these lines and the higher figures no more than reflect the actual situation. The opinion is expressed by some dealers that No. 1 timothy hay should sell at $17, and they are asking that price. Of corn, either ear or shelled, there is but little coming in, and the market has remained steady, with a moderate demand only. Receipts of oats have just about been commensurate with demand, and there have been no fluctuations.

Millfeed is steady and straw is offering at last week's prices, with purchasers not showing any particular eagerness to snap up offerings, while sellers are not in a conceding mood. Rye is running freely, but prices are about steady as quoted.

Flour has not changed and the situation is about the same as that of a week ago. The market is described as a little unsettled, but demand is good and prices have not gone off, although there is an easy feeling. Dealers are uncertain as to just what may happen, and would not be surprised at a quick and sudden turn in either direction, depending entirely on the wheat situation.

Refined Sugar Trade Falling Off.

Trade in refined sugar is falling off, and quotations will probably be lower before they are higher, although there is no present indication of an immediate advance or decline. Coffee is steady, but not quite so bullish as it was two weeks ago.

Navy beans are a little easier than they were, but the price question is still an open one, and jobbers are governed largely by conditions at the moment when making sales. The nominal quotation is $2 75, and this price rules where sales of beans are made in quantities of more than one bag. The outcome of the situation in western growing sections is still too uncertain to warrant wholesalers in letting go of stocks now in hand for less than present market values, which is not much under $3.

Canned goods are unchanged. Some packing houses did start a slight break in the market by offering tomatoes at five cents under generally accepted quotations, but the movement was not widespread and jobbers and brokers alike took the view that some local circumstances surrounding the offerings occasioned the concession. The opinion is that when retailers start to buying in earnest, and their stocks are now getting low, both corn and tomatoes will quickly strengthen and are not unlikely to advance.

Fancy Apples in Demand.

The demand for fancy apples has been exceptionally good for a week, and an advance has occurred in quotations for the most select stock. Potatoes have held their own, the market being somewhat firmer than it was two weeks ago. Sweet potatoes are easier. Cabbage, which has been dull and slow of sale for a long time, has commenced to pick up and is a trifle firmer. Tomatoes are lower, the demand having fallen off considerably; stock still arrives freely, but is not of the most desirable quality. Green corn is also lower, with request very much less than it was earlier in the season. String beans, on the other hand, are scarce, and prices are higher.

Concord grapes are coming in more freely and are offering at lower prices. Pears are abundant, but have been holding their own fairly well, while quinces are in good supply and lower. Of peaches, it can only be said that the season is nearing its close and consignments now arriving are uncertain in quality, while the quantity is not a plentiful supply for the very light demand. The fruit is not running well, much of it being spotted and not salable at any price. For selected fancy stock there is some demand and its acuity in making it command quick sales.

Cantaloupes have about wound up their season, but few crates offering on Saturday. Plums are unchanged and huckleberries are not yet done with. Vegetables are just about as they were, with quotations varying little if at all.

Butter Situation Firm.

The butter market is firm and some of the prophets have commenced to predict further advances. Eggs are still active, closing the week firm, with an upward tendency noticeable, which may result in higher prices this week. Cheese has not lost any ground, but local jobbers have not yet seen fit to make advances.

Poultry is selling at figures ruling at the opening of last week, except old live ducks, which are lower, and dressed Long Island ducklings, which are firmer. Spring chickens and turkeys have kept up to sufficient supply for the trade now going and are steady.

Advances were made in hams and breakfast bacon last Saturday, provision dealers asserting that while live stock is lower, cured meats are scarce and hard to get. Lard remained unchanged.

CEMENT CROWDS HEELS OF STEEL

Rapidly Growing in Popularity as Material for Buildings, Replacing Bricks.

FIVE YEARS OF TRADE

Progress In That Time Has Been One of American Wonders. Former Heavy Importations are Becoming Smaller.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 12.—"The Cement Age" is the suggestive caption under which a Toronto publication calls attention to the increasing demand for cement in the Dominion of Canada. Indications are not wanting that cement is soon to become an important factor in the industrial and commercial development of the United States. Its ready adaptability for use as building material, decorative purposes and street improvement, is not only suggested by the erection of costly manufacturing plants in many parts of the union, but is even more strongly suggested by the rapid increase in the production of cement during the past decade, and especially during the past five years.

According to figures received by the treasury bureau of statistics, the production of cement in the United States has actually doubled in five years, the total for 1901 being 20,000,000 barrels, as against 10,000,000 barrels in 1897; while during the period from 1892 up to the beginning of 1896 the production had remained practically stationary at about 8,500,000 barrels per annum.

The exports of cement are very small. Prior to 1897 they were too insignificant for separate enumeration; in that year they amounted to 38,000 barrels, valued at $71,180, and have steadily increased, year by year since that time, 302,462 barrels having been exported in 1902, valued at $651,526. Meantime the market for foreign cement is becoming more and more restricted in the United States. In 1892 the imports amounted to nearly 5,000,000 barrels, valued at a little less than $4,000,000, the importations remaining practically stationary from that time until 1901, when they showed a marked downward tendency, being in that year 1,536,926 barrels, valued at $2,198,891, and in 1902, 1,050,610 barrels, valued at $1,478,452, the lowest point reached in the past 15 years.

While these figures are small in comparison with the volume of our total commerce, they are chiefly interesting as showing the tendencies in an industry which is still in its initial stages, but which promises to supply an important substitute for wood, stone and iron in the building and allied trades.

The following paragraph from the Toronto World, though addressed primarily to Canadian readers, is even more applicable to conditions in the United States:

"The use of Portland cement is in its infancy and the manufacture of it on a large scale is only beginning in this country. Cement promises to replace stone for all kinds of heavy foundations and other wall works, to replace stone for paving, to replace brick very largely for building, and to replace lumber where lumber has been used. Indeed, cement will soon be next to steel, perhaps more than steel, the chief building material of this continent. Our houses will soon come to be of cement and every day sees the field for the use of cement growing at a surprising ratio."

Drygoods Market.

NEW YORK, Oct. 11.—Drygoods market today was dull, few buyers in attendance and demand confined almost entirely to immediate requirements. Tone and prices firm. The yarn market is strong for cotton, worsted woolen lines and jute yarns, with an advancing tendency.

NEW YORK PRICES.

Daily range of prices reported by Messrs. Henry Sproul & Co., Peoples Savings bank building, members of New York, Philadelphia, Pittsburgh and Chicago stock exchanges and Chicago board of trade.

POLITICANS SPEND A BUSY SUNDAY

CITIZENS SEE CERTAIN SUCCESS

Outlook for Overthrow of the Ring Is Very Encouraging.

MASK OFF FALSE REFORM

All Is Harmony in Democrat-Citizens Ranks Where Machine Predicted Discord—Admiration for Independent Men.

As the political campaign grows older the certainty of the election of the majority of the candidates on the Democratic-Citizens ticket grows more certain. These candidates are making a close canvass of the county or of their congressional or legislative districts, and being in close touch with the people can easily determine their own chances for election. Compared with gatherings of the Citizens party, the machine gatherings are frosty, and where enthusiasm reigns at the former and the speakers and the audience seem to be filled with vim and hope, the audiences at the ring meetings are small and both auditors and speakers are listless.

A new apparition on the political horizon, and a very thin one at that, is the Ballot Reform, or Muddy Water, party, which held two meetings last week, one in Hazelwood and the other in Old City hall. Only 270 persons attended the Old City hall meeting, and there was a wistful array of empty chairs to greet the sub-arch promoter, James F. Grimes, William Flinn, the chief arch promoter, having remained away.

Reformers' Mask Is Off.

Ostensibly organized to secure the election of R. E. Pattison, the "friend" of organized labor, the Ballot Reform party has cast off the mask and its orators, some of whom speak at both machine and Ballot Reform meetings, are now advocating only the election of the machine county ticket.

In Knoxville, where James F. Grimes lives, it is well known that John P. Moore, the candidate who happens to be on the machine ticket because the machine could not help itself, and was unable to keep him off, is utterly opposed to the Ballot Reform movement in which Grimes has engaged. Mr. Moore and his colleague, Robert McWhinney, are making inroads on the Citizens candidates, and as the campaign progresses their chances of winning out grows brighter.

There seems to be no doubt that Judge Edwin H. Stowe and Judge Josiah Cohen will be re-elected to the bench they have ornamented. Judge Cohen's appointment is called the one good act of Gov. Stone's since the governor betrayed the cause of reform in Pittsburgh. No more calumnies have been circulated about Judge Cohen, he having thoroughly punctured the two which were uttered two weeks ago.

Admiration for Independent Men.

The more the anti-machine voters consider the records of Recorder George M. von Bonnhorst, George W. Foster and Webb W. Murray in helping to prevent Gov. Stone from foisting John P. Elkin upon the ticket, the more the admiration for their brave act grows, and the more the determination is expressed to make up to those candidates the votes they may lose by the treachery of the machine, which threatened punishment when Von Bonnhorst and the others refused to take orders from Flinn and Stone, and asserted their manhood in the Republican state convention.

The decision of the Dauphin county court gets at rest any fears that might have been felt as to the success of the fusion congressional candidates, for these candidates will now certainly appear in the Democratic column on the official ballot. As the same law points are at issue in the contest proceedings against John M. Goehring and William S. Woods, candidates for the senate on the fusion ticket, it is felt that the Dauphin county court will also order them placed in the Democratic column, whence the machine tried to exclude them.

No Sign of Predicted Discord.

The prediction made by the machine, early in the campaign, that the alliance between the Citizens party and the Democrats would break up in discord before election has been proved to be baseless, for both parties are working in perfect harmony in efforts to roll up a big majority for the Citizens-Democratic candidates on November 4. That local and national politics have nothing in common has been proved, for while the Democrats are working hard for the fusion county and legislative ticket, they are doing yeoman's work for their state ticket. It happens that they are also supporting the Citizens congressional candidates, but everybody knows that they made that choice because it was impossible to elect Democratic congressmen in Allegheny county, and they preferred men of the high character of those on the Citizens ticket to those whose nomination on the machine ticket was dictated by William Flinn and William A. Stone.

LAST WEEK OF EXPO IS TO BE BRILLIANT

Several Surprises Planned in Connection With Damrosch Orchestra—Festival Chorus Tonight.

With today the Pittsburgh Exposition enters upon its last week for the season of 1902; for each of the remaining six days some surprise has been planned that cannot fail to arouse high appreciation and attract large gatherings.

For tonight the management announces the appearance of Harry Luckstone of New York, one of the most promising high baritones of the day. The number is the dashing "Toreador" song, from "Carmen." For the afternoon concert he has selected the lovely "Hearts Bowed Down," from "Bohemian Girl."

In response to many requests the Pittsburgh Festival chorus has again been secured for this evening. It will sing Rossini's "Charity" and Sullivan's "Lost Chord," Benjamin F. Butts conducting. Miss Henrietta Keil of Pittsburgh taking the sole parts, and the great Damrosch orchestra accompanying.

At the second concert tonight Miss Keil will sing the "Tannhaeuser," aria, "Ditch Theure Halle." Mr. Damrosch's program for this afternoon follows:

2 P. M.

Overture—"Fingal's Cave"	Mendelssohn
"Hymn to St. Cecilia"	Gounod

(b) "Benediction"	Liszt
Norwegian dances	Grieg

4 P. M.

Gov. Odell Registers.

NEWBURG, N. Y., Oct. 12.—(Special.)—Gov. Odell registered last evening. He spent the day at the home of his father, being greatly fatigued from the labors of the past week. He has done nothing concerning the situation in the coal strike, and in response to queries tonight replied that he knew of nothing that could be of interest in that direction.

RECORDER BROWN TO DROP THE SOFFELS

Thirty-Second Ward Machine Men Are Lined Up and the Fight Is On.

Only four days remain in which Recorder Brown can issue a call for a special election to fill the vacancy in select council caused by the death of John Paul. Recorder Brown was asked yesterday when he intended to issue the call. He replied that he would not send out the call today, but that he would know by tomorrow when he would set the date for the special election.

The fact is that Recorder Brown intends to first get rid of Peter Soffel, the chairman of the machine organization in the Thirty-second, the ward in which Mr. Paul lived. The Soffel family appears to have cast in their lot with the Citizens organization, at least Recorder Brown thinks so, and according to machine custom, it is necessary to throw out Soffel, as he refuses to obey the orders of the city chairman, who is Brown himself.

This was the intention when Recorder Brown offered the nomination, on Saturday, to Jacob Minsinger. After Minsinger had said he would take the offer under consideration, the recorder called in most of the members of the ward organization, and plans were laid to dispose of Soffel, who has contumaciously refused to resign, alleging that he was properly chosen ward chairman, and that no city chairman has the right to consider himself as the whole organization and demand a ward chairman's resignation.

The date for the special election will be named when the recorder has satisfied himself that the ward organization has been set up against Soffel. When the machine primaries are held to nominate a candidate for select council, a new chairman will also be chosen. It is asserted that under the rule a ward chairman can be elected whenever the incumbent is objected to by the powers that rule the organization. The ward organization elects the chairman, and therefore, it is claimed, it can get rid of him and secure another whenever it pleases.

The meeting between the city chairman and the members of the ward organization, whom he thinks he controls, was held in the public safety building on Saturday evening. There Brown told his followers that Soffel must be got rid of; that Soffel's son, Councilman Jacob Soffel, could not be relied on any longer, as he was tainted with a feeling of independence of machine orders. It was decided to have a new chairman, and another will be elected if Soffel still refuses to resign.

As a matter of course the majority of the members of the ward organization who obeyed Brown's order of meet him at the public safety building Saturday evening were policemen, firemen, white wings and other pay-roll people who still take orders.

GROWTH OF CRIME IS DUE TO POLITICS

The Rev. Dr. W. J. Russell Lays Much of Blame on Corrupt Rings That Rule.

The Rev. W. J. Russell, pastor of the East End Christian church, preached Sunday evening on the subject, "Crime; its Cause and Cure." He took for his text Ezek. ix:9, "The land is full of blood, and the city full of perverseness; for they say, the Lord hath forsaken the earth, and the Lord seeth not." In part, the speaker said:

"In the midst of all the light and glory of the twentieth century crime prevails. It stains our annals and disgraces our age.

"Among the causes of crime we notice, first, the utter want of moral training in thousands of homes.

"Intemperance is constantly adding to the long list of criminals. The saloons are the hotbeds where seven-tenths of all the crimes of the land are sprouted and kept alive till they have strength to perform duty anywhere.

"Then, again, the laxity with which the laws are enforced invites to their violation. The opportunity afforded by our method of jurisprudence for either delaying or defeating justice, is an encouragement to the wrongdoer to prosecute his evil plans. Follies, which does not hesitate to buy votes or intimidate voters, to defy the law or bribe its officers, is manipulating its forces in all of our large cities. Influential city politicians are often in receipt of a regular revenue in the way of hush money from gambling saloons, brothels and gregories, and the word is passed all the way down the line to let them alone.

"When we shall elect rulers and men to occupy official positions who are possessed with honest manhood, a manhood that will not lie or deceive even by silence, but that will speak the truth at all hazards; a manhood that will not bow down to Mammon—when we shall do this the atmosphere of peace, purity and safety will reign.

"Infidelity is another cause of crime; it acts regardless of the law of right. Karl Mark says: 'Blot out first the name of God from the face of the earth, and then every poor man will soon read a clear title to a home here, and he will no longer be under obligation to the priest for a title to a home in the hereafter.'

"Most says: 'Down with the church, the state, capitals and other kindred villainies.' The whole trend of infidelity is toward lawlessness. It held the concealed weapon that sent the fatal bullet which caused the death of the beloved William McKinley, our martyred president."

BAD MONEY BUT REAL SILVER.

Philippines Being Flooded from China With Counterfeits.

MANILA, Oct. 12.—Counterfeit silver dollars are being made in China and circulated here extensively. The suspicion is held that some of this money was shipped from San Francisco.

The dollars are of real silver and of standard weight. They have been detected through the improper stamping of the word "Liberty" on the goddess. The low price of silver insured to the makers of this counterfeit money a profit of 100 per cent. American silver circulates as gold in the Philippines.

Wealthy Men as Auctioneers.

NEW YORK, Oct. 12.—(Special.)—Sanford White, a well-known architect, and Edward Crowinshield, a member of the Knickerbocker club, have volunteered to sell tickets at a special auction sale to be held at the end of the week for "Tommy Rot," and the burlesque on "Iris," which are to open Mrs. Osborne's playhouse, formerly the Berkeley lyceum, next Monday evening.

BURKE NOW GETS CHANCE TO TALK

His Socialist-Labor Opponent Wants a Joint Debate.

BATTLE OF ORATORS ON

Great Chance for Students of the Classics—James Francis Burke Called Down on His Keane's Auditorium Performance.

H. Kirke Porter, the Citizens party's candidate for congress, has not accepted James Francis Burke's challenge to a test of oratorical ability, but since Burke challenged the well-known locomotive manufacturer another opponent has sprung into the field, armed cap-a-pie for the fray—D. E. Gilchrist, the Socialist-Labor party's candidate for congress. To see the young Hortensius of the bar meet the Cicero of the hustings in joint debate voters would probably flock for miles.

Both men are born orators and both have out-pebbled Demosthenes in efforts to acquire the graces of the orator, natural and cultivated. Both have pored over Longinus in the still watches of the night, and have acquired such practice in the delivery of smooth, elegant, condensed and convincing speeches that exordium, narrative, proof and peroration glide off their tongues so arranged as if Aristotle himself had edited their copy. Although both consulted the same masters in acquisition, in delivery they honor different models by emulating them. Gilchrist trained with Demosthenes, and "action, action, action" is his motto. Burke, for this campaign at least, has dexterously adopted the elegiac style of Bossuet, as more appropriate to a cause that is about to be buried.

Tip to Students in the Classics.

Young students of the classics could do no better than to wander from the shades of their almae matres and feast their eyes and ears upon these twentieth century exemplars of the golden days of Grecian and Roman rhetoric. Well may these students exclaim with Horace, when comparing the finished product of the Smoky City masters with the models upon which it is constructed: "Maitre pulchra filha pulchrior!"

In Keane's auditorium, on the night of October 9, Burke made a political speech in which he said: "Let us be honest and fair with each other; let us talk these matters over dispassionately; the American people will always demand and enforce fair play." Thereupon a workingman, Gilchrist himself, arose and started to ask Mr. Burke a question. The incident that followed gave rise to the challenge, which was sent yesterday to Burke by G. M. Sachter, secretary of the Pittsburgh organization of the Socialist Labor party, in behalf of Gilchrist, and is related in the following words in the letter:

How Burke Behaved.

"You excitedly threw off your coat (which you had worn during your entire address) and giving the sleeves of your shirt a menacing upward push, you told this workingman to go ahead. The workingman proceeded with his question when you interrupted him, saying: 'You have asked your question, and I will now answer it,' although this workingman insisted (and you well knew) that the most important part of his question had not yet been put; yet you excitedly and angrily told the workingman to sit down; which he did, proving thereby that he was not a disturber of the peace, but a law-abiding citizen and a man honestly trying to get at the truth; while you, by your arrogant and insolent attitude, plainly demonstrated that you are simply an office-seeker and political trickster; which is farther evidenced by the fact that you failed to answer the workingman's question, even in the incomplete form in which it was propounded."

New Track Opened.

The Pittsburgh, Virginia & Charleston railroad last evening at 5 o'clock opened the third track on the South Side, between Pittsburgh and Homestead, which will relp the freight congestion on this division of the Pennsylvania railroad. This is the third track that has been built on the new grade and in two months a fourth will probably be open, which will materially help the situation. For some time freight trains have been delaying passengers, but it is expected that this will be righted at once.

As the Exposition Closes This Week

The Special Features of the store at present are

The daily demonstrations illustrating the superiority of the new La Fleur Corset,

and

The Christmas show of Dolls and Toys in variety beyond anything ever seen here.

it goes without saying our store will have remarkable crowds every day of the six, many out-of-town people delaying their visit until the last week.

And this behooves us to say to our home people that if they enjoy comfortable shopping and plenty of elbow room—that they will meet with better service if they use the morning hours. This is especially true of the suit and wrap departments.

Of course you will know we will do our utmost to make everything pleasant whenever you choose to come; but sometimes, when there is an immense audience present, like on some of the days of last week, it is just barely possible that some folks might think we were a little slow waiting upon them.

As a rule, though, you are willing to overlook any shortcomings where it is impossible to prevent them.

So you that live in the city, please come in the morning, if you can. The earlier the better.

The Baby and Its Dress.

From the time baby opens its eyes in the morning until it is ready for bed everything conceivable that it needs is to be found in our Infants' Department, second floor of the annex.

Again, we say everything, from the least expensive to the costliest that the fondest mother would have on her baby.

Of course, the chief features just now are the Fall and Winter Coats, Caps and Bonnets, and the Dresses. Never such variety as now shown. All the baby materials, the pretty colors, and all weights.

Two special numbers:

Pretty Coat of pebble cheviot with stitched cape, rolling collar and cuffs of velvet. Entirely lined. Red, tan, cadet and navy. 1 to 3 years. $3.50.

Baby Caps of cream Bengaline Silk, full face trimming, and the price is only 50c.

Maids' Aprons, 25c.

A special lot of very good quality of lawn. Small and large hemstitched tucks and hem.

You couldn't make the apron for anything near 25c.

Nightgowns of Outing Flannel, 75c.

As neat a sleeping garment as women ever saw—and so very warm. Pretty, too—pink, blue and gray stripes.

Elderdown Cloth Dressing Sacques, 75c.

A smart little house garment, neat as a new pin. The finish is crochet scallops and ribbon. Pretty pinks, blues and grays.

More Underpriced Silks.

These are the most remarkable prices that we have yet quoted for silks that have a good name. Notice the trio at 85c. These silks virtually say: "It is nothing for us to be at the top of silk selling when we are sold for such prices!"

Moire Poplins, grounds of white, pink and maise, with small delicate color dots and rosebuds—looks like hand-pleated goods,

Moire Poplins, white grounds with small dots in colors of turquoise, pink, blue and black,

Steady Growth in Popularity of Our Fancy Dress Goods.

French Knots	$1.25, $1.50, $2.00 a yard.
English Curls	$2.00, $2.50, $3.00 a yard.
American Snow Flakes	$1.00, $1.25, $1.50 a yard.

The tendency seems to be toward the development of the costume idea in some form. As one leader of fashion notes, the lines of the costume give the dress a trimmer and nattier effect. So any dress developed along the ideas suggested, using the above materials, is sure to be recognized as something extremely fashionable.

From our broad variety of dress goods, we take for special mention the following:

Plain Kersey Cloth and Mixed Melton Cloths—equally fine for the tailored suit and the separate skirt, $1.25, $1.50, $2, $2.50 a yard. 52 to 56 inch widths.

A special showing of over one hundred colors in tailor Broadcloths, $1, $1.25, $1.50, $2 up to $4 a yard.

Two hundred and fifty newest colors in French Crepes and Veilings, 85c, $1, $1.25, $1.50, $2 a yard.

Just as strong in Black Dress Goods as we are in colors—in fact, our variety is the largest we ever had, and we were never accused of limitation in black goods.

If you have been thinking of a handsome black novelty, it is here—say a cloth from $1 to $6 a yard, or Zibeline or Camel's Hair from $1 to $5 a yard.

Ready for a first inspection this morning, 10,000 yards of Black Dress Goods, ranging from 75c a yard up to $1.50.

The matter of good linings should be discussed with as much readiness as the material for the dress itself. Unfortunately the lining seldom receives its share of importance.

None but the best of linings ever get a showing in our department, and yet they are sold at prices received elsewhere for some of the more common grades.

We have 3,500 yards of all silk linings to sell for 37½c a yard. They come in the most delicate tints—robin's egg, turquoise, peacock, mint, nile, emerald, white, cream and the staple colors, as well as black.

Swiss Wood Clocks, 50c.

A novelty that our buyer picked up on his run-about through Europe.

Hand-carved walnut face, white mahogany hands and Roman figures, pendulum, weight-winding.

There are but 500 of them, and, of course, they will be gone in a jiffy.

Our Great Suit and Cloak Room is the most interesting feminine department in the greater city, to women who appreciate the real smart exclusive modes.

This immense showroom, although much the largest in Pittsburg, running the full length of our second floor, is hardly sufficient to accommodate the throngs of customers on a busy day.

But our position as leaders of fashion rightly belongs to us. There is nothing made or shown, that has merit, that we cannot make a market for. The leading manufacturers look to us for an outlet for their smartest creations, and consequently we have first choice of their cleverest productions.
